SOVIET TANKS
HIT 20 MILES
FROM VIENNALAST-DITCH STAND
PROCLAIMED BY GERMANS

BY ROMNEY WHEELER
London, April 2. (P)—Russian assault forces, ripping 11 miles today through shattered enemy defenses, smashed within two and a half miles of panic-stricken Bratislava, capital of the puppet axis state of Slovakia, while Berlin reported tanks 20 miles south of Vienna.

As the Germans proclaimed a last-ditch defense of Vienna, under command of Col. Gen. Sepp Dietrich, commander of Hitler's SS bodyguard, Moscow's nightly war bulletin was silent on the progress of Soviet troops battering into Vienna's southern defense wall.

Clamping a news blackout on the sector, the Soviet high command said, however, that Red army forces were "continuing offensive engagements west of the Neustadler See (lake) where they last were officially reported 22 miles below the Austrian capital."

Enemy broadcasts said that Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin's Third Ukrainian army had gained two miles and that other Soviet units had thrust 32 miles inside Austria to Semmering Pass, one of five great trans-Alpine passes in Europe.

Other reports said giant Soviet tanks were battling in the streets of Wiener Neustadt, shell-raked industrial city 22 miles south of Vienna.

East of Vienna, Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Second Ukrainian army plunged unchecked through southern Slovakia along the northern bank of the Danube. Behind a curtain of fire from self-propelled guns, Malinovsky's troops stormed into and captured Bismarck, two and a half miles east of Bratislava.

Government Flees
The puppet government had fled the city, it was reported.

The Russians also seized more than 100 other places. Farther northeast Malinovsky's troops lined up against the southern slopes of the little Carpathian Mountains, which with the Moravia River guard the approaches to Vienna from the east.

Malinovsky's troops were 27 miles east of Vienna, the Soviet communique disclosed.
While Soviet forces advanced into Austria's mountains on an 82-mile front, the last big Hungarian city in enemy hands fell when Tolbukhin's troops took the oil center of Nagykanizsa, in southern Hungary nine miles from the Yugoslav border.

Their forces captured more than 40 other places west of Nagykanizsa and captured 10,000 prisoners, for a two-day bag in that area of 36,000.

"To visualize the Virgin islands of the future is to see one of the world's most natural resorts developed with miles of modern roads, a fine water supply, schools, hotels and other modern conveniences, he said.

Will Be Wiped Off Map

BY HOWARD COWAN

With the U. S. Seventh Army, April 2. (P)—The American Seventh army ordered the fanatical German garrison of Aschaffenburg annihilated and the heavily fortified city wiped off the map today as Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's troops lunged eastward through Germany into Bavaria.

The grim task, ordered by the Allied command as an example to all Germans, was assigned to the Thunderbolt Infantry of the 45th Division and the Thunderbolt pilots of the First Tactical Air Force. Already the town, in which teen-age girls are fighting alongside German troops, is a heap of smoking rubble.

CITY NOT SAVED

Signs Exhort Citizens
To Make Last Stand
And Then Flee

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER

Mannheim, Germany, April 2. (P)—Mannheim's Nazi bosses apparently depended upon propaganda more than any other war weapon to save their city from the complete ruin it now is.

As everywhere else, they fled when Americans moved in four days ago. But evidence of their campaign of words stares one in the face everywhere.

In many cities signs exhort citizens to make a last stand. Nowhere, however, have I seen so many nor any clothed in such fiery language as in Mannheim.

Here is a fair collection of them: "Victory or Siberia. . . . Glorious hearts and creative hands achieve victory. . . . No sacrifice is too great for victory. . . . Nobody can rob us of our victory. . . . If we believe in the fuhrer nobody can steal the victory. . . . Victory will be ours."

"Work, fight, achieve victory. . . . Work, fight, have faith. . . . We cry for vengeance. . . . They can break our walls but not our hearts. . . . Wheels must roll for victory. . . . Germany will conquer. . . . Supreme effort brings victory. . . . Nobody can get us."

"Better dead than slave. . . . Never again a ninth of November (referring to capitulation of 1918). . . . We never capitulate. . . . Your fuhrer watches for you. . . . Hold the front. . . . Terror doesn't scare us. . . . Firm stands the front."

Hearing Is Called
In Chicago To Plan
Postwar Projects

Washington, April 2. (P)—The house sub-committee on public works and construction announced today it will conduct a hearing Wednesday in Chicago on relations of municipalities and the federal government in the planning of postwar public works.

Chairman Lynch (D-N. Y.) said Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago will be the first witness to testify at the one-day hearing, to be held in the Palmer House.

In addition to Kelly, other witnesses invited to testify include: Don Weeks, secretary of the Michigan state planning board; H. G. Crow, St. Joseph, Mich.; Leonard G. Howell, Port Huron, Mich.; and George Bean, Pontiac, Mich.

a five-day assault on the stubborn city today to ask the ground commanders if they wanted the bombardment to continue.

Back went the order to keep up the assault as long as the Germans continued to fire on American soldiers working their way into the area used by the wehrmacht as a battle indoctrination school for young Nazis during the long preparation for this war.

Tonight the 157th Infantry Regiment was fighting inside the town. Other elements of the 45th Division had cleared Schweinhelm on the southeastern outskirts and captured Halbach and Strassenebach, about three miles due east.

Troops of the Seventh Army teamed up with soldiers from Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third army to liberate 7,000 Allied soldiers—half of them Americans—from a German camp near Aschaffenburg and drove farther east with renewed vigor on reports that 14,000 more Allied captives were being held by the Nazis in a wooded area nearby.

The liberated soldiers were in a prison camp east of Bad Orb which is 10 miles northeast of Aschaffenburg. Forces of the 106th Cavalry and another cavalry group led the rescue drive.

The Fourth Infantry Division, pushing forward in another sector, reported it had captured another German general but his identity had not been disclosed late tonight.

FRENCH-ITALIAN
FRONT POPPING

Offensive May Menace
Rear Of Enemy Line
In Po Valley

Rome, Apr. 2. (P)—U. S. 12th Air Force medium bombers launched at main German escape routes from northern Italy today as tactical planes hammered enemy communications and installations in the Po valley.

Meanwhile, it was announced that Allied warships have been raking Nazi positions along the French-Italian frontier, including the harbor of San Remo.

The German high command communique said fighting had broken out on the "forgotten front" in the French-Italian border region and acknowledged Allied seizure of "a small foothold on Petit St. Bernard, a 7,064-foot mountain 15 miles south of the Swiss border. An offensive drive in this sector would threaten the rear of German forces holding the Po valley in Italy."

Reports of renewed activity in the area were viewed as significant in the light of the naval action off the French-Italian coast. The U. S. Destroyer Laub was identified as among the ships in action.

AMMUNITION SALVAGED

New York, April 2. (P)—Members of the crew of a U. S. Navy LST boat (Landing Ship Tanks) formed a human chain today and removed thousands of rounds of anti-aircraft ammunition from their boat when it caught fire while tied up at Pier 42, North River, at Morton and West streets, this afternoon, the Navy reported.

VOTING TREND
IS APATHETICINCUMBENT COURT
JUSTICES SEEM WINNERS

BY JACK I. GREEN

Detroit, April 3. (P)—Michigan Republicans appeared today, on the basis of incomplete returns from Monday's biennial spring election, to have swept seven state elective positions at stake, while two incumbent justices of the state supreme court seemed to have been reelected.

In the most apathetic balloting in modern state history, preoccupation with the war, inclement weather and lack of heated contests for any offices combined to hold the ballot count well under a quarter of the state's 2,200,000 record vote cast in last fall's general election.

Wayne Neck and Neck
Initial returns from normally Democratic Wayne county showed the Republicans and Democrats running almost neck and neck and, while no one was prepared to predict that as the final outcome, it was considered symbolic of the lack of interest in the state's industrial capital.

The only Democrat holding his head above the tide was Chief Justice Raymond W. Starr of Grand Rapids, and he was running for reelection to the state supreme court on a non-partisan ticket. He was bracketed in the winning column with Associate Justice Walter H. North, a Republican and incumbent. The seeming losers were W. Leo Cahalan, Wyandotte, and Herman H. Dehnke, Harrisville.

Returns from 799 out of 3,856 precincts gave: North, 36,314, Starr 41,103, Cahalan 12,838 and Dehnke 16,927.

No Race for Elliott
Seeking his first full-term as state highway commissioner, Republican incumbent Charles M. Ziegler, of Lansing, had a better than two-to-one lead over his Democratic opponent, George A. Dingman, Wayne county drain commissioner.

The count in 803 out of 3,756 precincts gave Ziegler (R) 55,598 and Dingman (D) 22,385.

Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction, appeared to be having no trouble returning to office for his fifth elective term. His lead over his Democratic opponent, E. Burr Sherwood, of Stambaugh, was hovering around three-to-one.

Returns from 805 precincts out of 3,856 gave Elliott (R) 56,290, and Sherwood (D) 20,941.

The Democrats appeared to be losing their last two openings on the board of regents of the University of Michigan, as Dr. Charles S. Kennedy, Detroit, and Otto E. Sekert, Lansing, ran far ahead of the Democratic candidates, Edward Martin Welch, Detroit, and Dr. J. Walter Orr, Flint.

Returns from 805 out of 3,856 precincts for regents gave Kennedy, (R) 54,624, Eckert (R) 54,004, Welch (D) 21,608, Orr (D) 20,875.

Melville B. McPherson, of Lowell, was elected to the board of regents of the University of Michigan.

Man Who Wedded
12 Women Isn't
Crazy, Says Judge

San Francisco, April 2. (P)—Francis Van Wie may have married 12 women but he kept his sanity through it all, a superior court jury ruled today in finding the 58-year-old Municipal Railway conductor guilty for the second time of three counts of bigamy.

The jurors rejected his plea of innocence by reason of insanity. They found without merit his contention that he was off his trolley because he was kicked in the head by a mule, clouted on the skull with an axe and dropped 65 feet from a smokestack.

The blue-eyed, five-foot-two defendant is scheduled to be sentenced Thursday by Superior Judge Herbert Kaufman. The maximum penalty is 30 years in prison. Van Wie's attorney, James Toner, announced he would move for a new trial.

Van Wie was found sane by the same jury that earlier convicted him of bigamously marrying Myrtle Wheeler, Josephine Bergman and Evelyn Brown, who testified he courted them from the rear platform of a trolley car. He admitted nine other marriages.

At his trial he said Evelyn, his last wife, was his "true love." She sent him an Easter card yesterday, but told reporters she was moved only "by a friendly feeling. No, I would never marry him again."

At his sanity trial, alienists testified Van Wie was a psychopath but legally sane.

Okinawa Island
Split By Yanks

BY RAY CRONIN

Associated Press War Editor
Strategic Okinawa Island, on the southwest flank of the Japanese homeland, has been cut in two by American forces, Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz reported last Monday.

Only scattered Japanese resistance was met by doughboys of the 24th Army Corps as they cut across the island from the west coast beachhead to the east coast near the village of Tobara.

Meanwhile, in the Philippines American forces suffered small losses as they took the major port of Legaspi in the strike against Luzon's east coast.

Adm. Nimitz said advances averaging several yards were made on Okinawa by doughboys and marines along the entire 10th Army lines. They were supported by carrier planes, naval guns and artillery fire. Increasing Japanese activity was noted in the rugged central sector of the island.

Marines of the Third Amphibious Corps advanced in the north.

Observation planes were using the two Okinawa air fields taken soon after American forces hit Okinawa beaches Easter Sunday morning.

Floodway On Mississippi
To Be Opened; Day And Night Vigil Kept

New Orleans, April 2. (P)—The U. S. Army engineers set about in earnest today with plans to open the Morganza floodway on the Mississippi river north of Baton Rouge, to divert additional water to the gulf and ease the flood strain on the seriously menaced lower valley levees where breaks might cause great damage.

On the heels of high winds and heavy precipitation over the weekend, backwaters from the Mississippi and its tributaries were inundating additional lowlands. Residents and their cattle were being removed.

Governor James H. Davis of Louisiana, advised that "extremely high water" was in store, called a meeting of the state board of liquidation for Wednesday to provide $100,000 for levee patrol, sandbagging and other levee maintenance against high water.

DeWitt Byburn, state director of the department of public works, predicted the worst flood since 1927 in the extreme lower valley. He advised Louisiana levee boards to maintain vigil on the Mississippi and its tributaries day and night.

Under the present law prosecuting officials have just six years—with some exceptions—in which to move to bring criminals to justice. The exceptions are murder, for which there is no statute of limitations, and kidnapping and extortion, for which the limit is 10 years.

Eaton said his bill would change the statute of limitations from six years to 12 years. The statute of limitations fixes the time within which the law must move to punish certain crimes if it is to punish them at all.

Eaton said his bill would fix a general limit of 12 years for non-felony offenses, but continue the rule of no limit on the time in which homicide cases may be punished.

Repeatedly the Carr grand jury has said through Special Prosecutor Kim Sigler that it has uncovered graft cases which can not be punished because they occurred prior to the 1939 legislative session. Sigler made the statement on the record in court trial of 29 defendants convicted last summer of a graft conspiracy.

Eaton said lawyers have assured him that there is no constitutional bar to change of the statute of limitations.

Famine Threatens
Naziland; Farmers
Must Stay On Job

Paris, Apr. 2. (P)—Germany is threatened with famine, Allied supreme headquarters declared tonight in a broadcast urging all farmers in western Germany to remain on their farms at all costs in order to prevent a catastrophe.

General Eisenhower ordered the instructions broadcast, warning the Germans that if they disobeyed there is "nothing either you or the Allies can do that will prevent a catastrophe in Germany this year."

American invasion of the Ryukyus, of which Okinawa is the main island, was pushed 52 miles westward to the small island of Kume, westernmost of the archipelago. The report was not confirmed by Allied sources.

Radio Tokyo insisted that the Japanese defenders of Okinawa were resisting the reinforced Americans furiously and that 41 ships of the Yank invasion armada have been sunk.

Tokyo broadcast the death in action of 14 Japanese admirals, boosting to 108 the total loss of admirals since May, 1944.

Preceded by effective naval and aerial bombardments and spearheaded by the 158th Regimental combat team, American doughboys of 14th Corps, Sixth Army, made the landing at Legaspi, finest port on Luzon's east coast.

Legaspi, on southeast Luzon, is the capital of Albay province. A railroad connects it with Manila, about 215 air miles northwest.

New American advances were reported on Cebu and Negros Islands, central Philippines.

The relentless pounding of Formosa and Japanese shipping on the China Sea by Philippine-based bombers continued.

Official American reports from Guam said a large force of Superfortresses, probably 150, unloaded explosive and incendiary bombs on the big Nakajima aircraft engine plant on the outskirts of Tokyo early Monday, Japanese time. Two of the low-flying B-29s were lost to enemy action.

A Chinese high command communique Monday said that the strategic cities of Laohokow and Nanyang, in Hupeh and Honan provinces, still were held by Chinese forces.

Earlier radio Tokyo claimed complete Japanese occupation of Nanyang.

Bill Drafted To Extend
Lansing Inquiry
Back To 1933

Lansing, April 2. (P)—Declaring he wanted to open broader fields of investigation for the Carr grand jury, Rep. Elton R. Eaton, Plymouth Republican, announced today he has drafted a bill to allow investigation of graft in legislatures as long ago as 1933.

Eaton said his bill would change the statute of limitations from six years to 12 years. The statute of limitations fixes the time within which the law must move to punish certain crimes if it is to punish them at all.

WAR MOBILIZER
BYRNES RESIGNS

Broad Official Hint Given That Hitler Is As Good As Beaten

BY STERLING F. GREEN
Washington, April 2. (P)—President Roosevelt today accepted the resignation of War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes and thereby gave the broadest official hint to date that Germany is as good as beaten.

By agreement reached months ago, Byrnes was to stay until the European end of the global war job was done.

Fred M. Vinson, Federal Loan administrator, was chosen to succeed him as director of the office of war mobilization and reconstruction.

Byrnes had agreed last November to stick to his post—as Mr. Roosevelt then stated—"until the elimination of Germany from the war."

The 65-year-old "assistant president" submitted his resignation on the day American troops surged across the Rhine in strength, telling the president he felt V-E Day "is not far distant."

The president held the resignation while Allied armies fanned swiftly over the Reich and then, in apparent agreement that Germany could not be regarded as virtually eliminated, released the former senator and supreme justice with "heartfelt regret."

There still was no indication of the location and role of the new American 15th army which was disclosed two days ago to be in action.

Lifting a five-day security blackout on the British Second and Canadian First armies, the Allies disclosed last night that the Canadians, attacking in the area between Enmerich and Nijmegen on both sides of the Dutch Rhine, had pushed forward and reached

Britain Prepares
For Revenge Raids
By Nazi Bombers

London, April 2. (P)—As Britain marked the longest lull in the nine months of German V-bomb attacks with fervent prayers that the end of the vengeance warfare was near, measures were authoritatively reported under way today for defense against a possible new revenge assault—a final desperate blitz with dynamite-packed obsolete bombers.

Stripped of all non-essential equipment and carrying only enough fuel for a one-way flight, old Junkers 88 bombers could carry several tons of high explosive, which could serve as remotely controlled flying bombs.

Late reports from supreme headquarters stated that many German V-weapon crews were making a dash to get out of northern Holland before it is sealed off by Field Marshal Montgomery.

Coal Miners Renew
Wage Negotiations

Washington, April 2. (P)—John L. Lewis and bituminous coal operators, with another month's grace for writing a new contract, resumed their negotiations today.

The old contract, due to expire last Saturday night, was extended until May 1 by agreement of the operators and Lewis yesterday at the direction of the War Labor Board.

Today was virtually a holiday in the mines in observance of the anniversary of the first contract providing an eight hour day, but the diggers were expected back in the pits tomorrow.

NAZIS UNABLE

BRITISH HEAD FOR NORTH SEA COAST
IN HOLLAND

BY AUSTIN BEALMEAR

Paris, Tuesday, April 3. (P)—German troops again crushed German attempts yesterday to break out of the Ruhr, where 110,000 Nazis are trapped, as British and Canadian forces to the north smashed 15 miles inside Holland and sped within 65 miles of the German North Sea coast, threatening to seal off another huge enemy group in the western Netherlands.

In the race toward Berlin, swift U. S. Ninth army columns striking far beyond the enricled Ruhr, were nearing or might already have reached the Deser river near the pied piper town of Hamelin, 155 miles from Berlin.

A dispatch from Gen. Omar N. Bradley's 12th army group headquarters said a total of 350,000 Germans had been captured in March, 150,000 of them by the Third army and 90,000 by the First army, whose troops yesterday smashed Nazi break-out attempts and counterattacks in the Winterberg and Warburg areas.

Forward elements of the sprinting Ninth army were moving under a security blackout in the attack toward Berlin, and into the center of the front the U. S. Third army reached the Werra river on a broad front and crossed that stream near Eisenach, 155 miles southwest of Berlin and 90 miles from Leipzig.

Retreat Cut Off
The Third army now was more than half-way across the waist of Germany, racing toward the Czechoslovakian frontier about 90 miles away, in an effort to split the Reich and prevent German troops from retreating into the Bavarian Alps. Other Third army units made a new crossing of the Fulda river in this eastward sweep.

The American Seventh army fanned out in sizeable advances to the north, east and west, and the adjacent French First army at the southern end of the front captured 60 localities in 48 hours, took many prisoners, and widened its bridgehead across the Rhine near Karlsruhe to 25 miles.

There still was no indication of the location and role of the new American 15th army which was disclosed two days ago to be in action.

U. P. FIRMS
IN OPA ACTION
Vogue Of Marquette And
Dick Of Ironwood
Are Cited

Two complaints have been filed against two Upper Peninsula firms, and an additional suit for recovery of $799.98 started against one of them for violations allegedly committed against Office of Price Administration price regulations. Papers were filed by Louis J. Gregory, Chief of the Enforcement Division of the Escanaba District Office of Price Administration in the U. S. District Court at Marquette.

The firms involved are: The Vogue, 147 W. Washington St., Marquette and The Northern Warehouse Co. of Ironwood, Michigan.

Mr. Gregory's complaint against the Vogue and Louis Dubinsky, individually and also as a firm, alleges that the above named defendants have been guilty of violations of Maximum Price Regulation 165 and Maximum Price Regulation 330 in that they have, for some time past, made certain charges for alterations in connection with their sales of apparel items, contrary to the provisions of these regulations and contrary to the instructions which they received from the Escanaba District Office. The Administrator is asking both a preliminary and permanent injunction in this case to restrain these defendants from further violations of these regulations, and is further seeking a judgment for and on behalf of the Treasurer of the U. S. in the amount of $641.13 for violations of Maximum Price Regulation 165, and for the sum of $158.85 for violations of Maximum Price Regulation 330.

MPR 165 covers charges made for services which provides that the prices to be charged for the same or similar services should be the same as those charged during the base period, which was March 1942.

MPR 330 provides that retailers of women's apparel items shall not charge prices in excess of prices filed in their pricing chart with their local War Price and Rationing Board.

The second complaint alleges that Raymond Dick, individually and doing business as The Northern Warehouse Co., of Ironwood, Mich., "has been guilty of violations of MPR 169, as amended and revised, in that he has upgraded the meat in that he has offered for sale and sold to retailers and institutional users in the Gogebic County area. The complaint prays for a preliminary and final injunction enjoining the defendant from delivering, selling, and offering to sell meats at prices in excess of those provided by MPR 169."

Motions for preliminary injunctions in both cases have been set for hearing before Federal Judge Fred N. Raymond at Marquette on April 10th, 1945.

General Who Led
Blitz Into Reich
Killed In Action

Washington, April 2 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Maurice Rose, whose division led an epic drive into Germany last week, has been killed in action, the war department announced today.

Without giving time or circumstances, the department said the commander of the Third armored division, a unit of Lt. Gen. Courtney Hodges' First army died "while leading his division in spear-heading the advance of United States troops in Germany."

His was the division that led the way into the heart of the Nazi realm with a drive of nearly 100 miles between dawn and dusk. Thomas R. Henry, Washington Star war correspondent who went along, said the dash was made without flank support, and called it possibly the fastest in combat history.

Rose was the eleventh American general officer killed in action in this war. Eight others have died in airplane crashes and 15 from natural causes, while eight are missing and 19 are prisoners of war.

"I don't think everything can be told to every body right away. But it doesn't mean it is being kept from you for a curious and strange reason."

Saboteurs Wreck
German Train To Block U. S. Column

With The U. S. Seventh Army, April 2 (AP)—Saboteurs, in their first reported strike on the U. S. Seventh army front, plunged a German train and several coaches to a shattered wreck over a military highway through Erbach today, killing some American troops and delaying an armored column.

The overpass, as a result of an explosion, had been gaping open above the route for several days. Apparently the saboteurs unbraked a train blocked by the blasted track and rolled it through the opening onto the busy conveyor route, 23 miles northeast of Mannheim.

Filmclub Strikers

Hollywood, April 2 (AP)—Nine major film studios tonight warned AFL union officials involved in the 22-day old jurisdictional movie strike that unless their members return to work by Wednesday and "perform their services" they would lose their jobs.

The ultimatum, telegraphed to union officers, declared the producers would have no alternative but "to fill the jobs from other sources."

General Who Led
Blitz Into Reich
Killed In Action

Washington, April 2 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Maurice Rose, whose division led an epic drive into Germany last week, has been killed in action, the war department announced today.

Without giving time or circumstances, the department said the commander of the Third armored division, a unit of Lt. Gen. Courtney Hodges' First army died "while leading his division in spear-heading the advance of United States troops in Germany."

His was the division that led the way into the heart of the Nazi realm with a drive of nearly 100 miles between dawn and dusk. Thomas R. Henry, Washington Star war correspondent who went along, said the dash was made without flank support, and called it possibly the fastest in combat history.

Rose was the eleventh American general officer killed in action in this war. Eight others have died in airplane crashes and 15 from natural causes, while eight are missing and 19 are prisoners of war.

"I don't think everything can be told to every body right away. But it doesn't mean it is being kept from you for a curious and strange reason."

Werewolves Claim
Credit In Killing
Of Allied Helpers

London, April 2 (AP)—The Nazis officially claimed today that the assassins of the mayors of occupied Aachen and Meschede were members of the "Werewolf" underground terrorist organization, which Berlin said is organized to resist Allied occupation forces.

A radio describing itself as an underground Werewolf station took the air with claims that Werewolves had murdered some American army officers, including three of high rank, and had been active in Frankfurt and Heidelberg.

The Moscow radio commented: "The wolf hunt is on—good hunting."

Berlin officially disclaimed connection with the organization, saying "official and party circles in Berlin had nothing to do with its organization" and that it "possesses its own authority."

But Nazi propaganda made it plain that the group was the chosen medium for the Himmler-enchanted "knife in the dark" scheme to fight occupation forces and murder officials who join Allied-controlled administrations.

NAZIS UNABLE

Big Prize Ahead

The canal is only 15 miles from the Zunder (Zee (Jssel Meer)). Once the Allies reach that coast they will have bisected all enemy forces in Holland.

On the right flank of the Canadians the British, advancing 25 miles through flattened towns and splintered forests, captured Enschede in Holland, occupied the communications hub of Rheine, and plunged close to Osnabrueck, big industrial city 65 miles from Bremen.

Thousands of Germans were reported fleeing from Holland in an effort to avoid the double noose that the British and Canadians were fashioning.

Marshal Montgomery's troops also entered Munster, Westphalia capital, along with U. S. forces, but armored vanguards already had sped around that bastion and raced within 12 miles of Osnabrueck, biggest prize yet to come within the grasp of the British since they crossed the Rhine 10 days ago.

Next to the British, Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson's Ninth army tanks were striking along a great military highway toward the Weser river, their cocky crews predicting they would be in Berlin in less than a week.

Attacks Hurdled Back

Hamm, greatest rail center in Europe, was being mopped up by Maj. Gen. Robert Macon's 83rd division.

At the eastern side of the Ruhr pocket the Germans made their first coordinated attempt to break out the trap, and were smashed back by troops of Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First Army.

Simultaneously, other German forces, apparently intent on cracking the 30 to 40-mile-wide steel ring around the trapped Ruhr army group, began counter-attacking Hodges' lines in the Warburg area southeast of Paderborn, but these too were hurled back.

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third army, driving to cut Germany in two at the waist, smashed ahead 12 miles during the day and reached the Werra river 90 miles from the Czechoslovak frontier at a point three miles miles northwest of Eisenach.

The Sixth armored division was less than 155 miles southwest of Berlin and 198 miles from the Russian front line.

Patton's troops were fighting in the outskirts of the prized city of Kassel, and the 26th infantry division was reported battling in the streets of Fulda, a great Catholic shrine city.

The fast-moving Third army had reached the edge of the Thuringian forest, an area where the Germans are said to have built a great series of underground war plants and factories.

Farther south, Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's Seventh army gained control of more than 17 miles of the River Main southeast of Wuerzburg and broke out of the Odenwald onto the Wuerzburg-Heilbronn plain.

Nuernberg, great Nazi convention city and a vital communications point on the Berlin-Brenner Pass route, was menaced by Patch's armored forces.

On the northern front, Lt. Gen. Sir Miles S. Dempsey's British and Scottish troops fought into the Teutoburg forest near Bielefeld in their drive toward Bremen. They also reached the outskirts of Gronau to the west.

The Canadian Third division cleared Elten and the woods above the town west of Emmerich. The Germans were blowing the bridges over canals as they reeled back under the Canadian and British attacks.

Union, Road Commission
Fail To Agree On Wages

Failing to agree on proposed rates of pay for various classes of work for employees of the Delta county road commission, the county road commission last night proposed to the union of its employees that wages be hours of work and other conditions of employment as practiced by the city of Escanaba be established for county road employees.

The grievance committee of the union will submit the proposal to the membership of the union for acceptance or rejection.

It is expected that another meeting of the union representatives, the county road commission, and the labor relations committee of the county board of supervisors will be held next Monday to hear the report of the grievance committee.

The road commission rejected the compromise proposal by the union in a resolution which included the following statement:

"After due consideration, it is believed that most of the demands are inconsistent with employment practices, both private and public, in Delta County. The present income of this board is barely sufficient to meet the wages demanded, leaving little or no funds for other current expenses, which normally constitute approximately one-half of our total operating cost. Estimated income for several years following the year would be insufficient to meet the payroll alone, if requested increases were allowed."

Then the county road commission offered to substitute the Escanaba city system covering wages, hours of work and other employment conditions for the present conditions under which the county road commission employs work, "except that this shall not be construed as collective bargaining."

Conditions of employment which are not covered by the regulations or the practice of the city of Escanaba would be established by the commission after hearing suggestions from its employees.

Nine Forest Fires
Burn Sunday; All
Now Under Control

The Delta-Menominee district of the conservation department Sunday called out all of its available men and equipment to extinguish nine forest fires in the district, which brought to 15 the total of fires in the district the past week, it was reported yesterday by D. H. Raess, district supervisor.

All fires in the district were under control or out yesterday.

Sunday there were four fires in Delta county and five in Menominee county. A house, barn and garage were destroyed in a blaze that started accidentally at a far-shed near Shakey Lakes in Menominee county and burned over 30 acres of land.

A barn at the Leo Kivi farm near Woodlawn in Delta county was destroyed and 25 acres of land were burned over in a fire believed to have started from chimney sparks from the Kivi home.

Other fires included: Delta county—Two fires two miles east of Beaver that burned over 30 acres and destroyed a barn; and one near Flat Rock that burned a half-acre. Menominee county—Twenty-five acres fire west of Ingalls; 6 acres south of Harris; 6 acres near Spalding; and one-half acre south of Wilson.

For four hours Sunday afternoon there was a high wind and high fire hazard. Two persons were arrested for starting fires Sunday and will be arraigned later, Raess said.

enemy to hold the high woods around Osnabrueck, the fall of that city appeared to be near, said Associated Press Front Correspondent William Frye.

NEW MUNISING
MAYOR CHOSEN

Duffett, McAllister And Bjork Elected City Supervisors

Munising, April 2—Lowell Gibson was elected mayor of Munising in the Spring election here today, defeating Evered Lezotte 701 to 446. Lezotte is the incumbent, having served one term.

Six candidates were in the field for election as city supervisors, with three elected. The winners were: William Duffett, 566 votes; Arthur McAllister, 697; and Gunnar Bjork, 710. Others in the race were: Martin Cleven, Jr., 431; Adolore Perron, 379, and Francis Lincoln, 395.

Trends were decidedly for democratic candidates in the voting for state offices. For the office of highway commissioner, the Democratic candidate, Dingman, received 405 votes in seven out of 15 precincts, and Ziegler, the incumbent, received 243.

Chicago, April 2 (AP)—Candy manufacturers of five cent bars and packages need no longer set aside 50 per cent of their production for the armed forces, the regional office of the War Food Administration announced today.

Classified Ads cost little but do a big job.

The road commission offered a 4 cents per hour increase which would raise annual payroll cost $8,000. Under these proposed rates heavy equipment operators would receive 80 cents an hour, light equipment operators 76 cents, skilled labor 80 cents to $1, semi-skilled mechanics 84 cents, common labor 72 cents.

Following consultation the union committee offered a compromise as follows: Heavy equipment operators 85 cents, light equipment operators 80 cents, skilled labor 90 cents to $1.09, mechanics 90 cents, watchmen and common labor 75 cents.

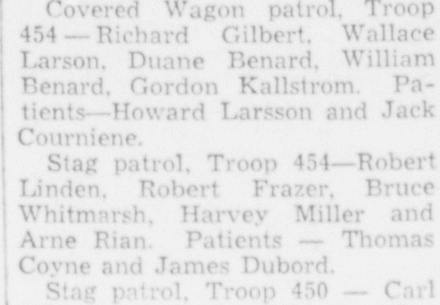

The road commission rejected the compromise proposal by the union in a resolution which included the following statement:

"After due consideration, it is believed that most of the demands are inconsistent with employment practices, both private and public, in Delta County. ## ANNOUNCE COAL PURCHASE RULE

Consumer Declaration Must Be Filed With Dealer

The Solid Fuels Administration has recently informed local coal dealers of the procedure which must be followed by the consumer in obtaining fuel for the coming winter. The regulation applies to the entire area east of the Mississippi river.

The regulation applies primarily to dealers and domestic consumers regardless of where the coal is produced.

No domestic consumer may receive coal unless he has first filed a "consumer declaration" with his retail dealer. He must secure a card from his dealer, fill it out and file it with his dealer. Since the dealer as well as the consumer can get only 80 per cent the dealer cannot give any customer more than his fair share. The dealer is asked to check the consumer declarations to see they do not exceed their normal requirements.

Each dealer is obligated to deliver by March 31, 1946, usable solid fuels to domestic consumers for which he supplied most of the fuel in 1944-45, providing they file their consumer declaration and place their orders promptly. The amount to be delivered is limited to 80 per cent of normal requirements. Certain kinds of less scarce fuels may be delivered up to 120 per cent.

Dealers must deliver, by Oct. 1, 30 per cent of the annual requirements of a customer who files his declaration and places his order by May 15. A dealer is relieved of any obligation if the customer refuses to accept a usable solid fuel offered him.

Dealers who accept new customers must give them the maximum fuel provided for under the regulation, but old customers must be supplied first.

Consumer declaration forms and copies of the regulation will be available for retail dealers to supply their customers. The customer may fill out these declarations either written or by telephone.

Fuel users are urged by the Solid Fuels Administration to conserve fuel in every possible way. Furnaces should be stopped early this spring. Temperatures should be kept as low as 60 degrees during the day and lower at night.

Install insulation, storm sash, weatherstripping and automatic heating controls, if possible. Unused rooms should be closed up to cut off heat, and furnaces should be cleaned and then carefully and efficiently operated.

Serious fuel shortages are expected during the entire heating season ahead. It appears that the shortage for the 1945-46 coal year will be 40 million tons, the Solid Fuels Administration reports.

Clergymen Attend Meeting Of Kiwanis, Hammer Is Speaker

Escanaba pastors were guests of the Escanaba Kiwanis club at an Easter program held at the Sherman hotel yesterday noon.

Principal speaker was Rev. Karl J. Hammar, pastor of the Central Methodist church, who spoke on "The Meaning of Easter."

"Easter with its message of the Resurrection of Our Lord reaffirms the truth that something good will come out of this Universe because there is something good woven into its fabric which nothing can destroy," Reverend Hammar said. "This world is going on to the conclusion of God's plan for it."

"Easter also reaffirms our faith in God and the value of the spiritual life of man," the speaker continued. "The finest things in human life are the results of man's spiritual powers." He added that some of the best things, such as love, faith and truth, cannot be seen, but they exist, nevertheless, and have a tremendous influence upon our lives.

Brief talks were also given by Rev. Fr. Norbert Freiburger, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's church, and Rev. David L. Carlson, secretary of the Escanaba Ministerial association. A solo, "Stranger of Galilee," was sung by Capt. Milton Anderson, with Mrs. Anderson playing the piano accompaniment.

LUCKY TO DROP HEN SUBSIDY

WFA Proposed Payment To Kill Egg Layers Last Winter

Lansing—Michigan poultry industry leaders declared today that the war food administration can consider itself lucky it never was permitted to put into effect its proposal to pay a subsidy at $1 per hen to farmers last winter as an inducement to reduce the nation's egg laying flocks by 100,000,000 birds.

Andrew G. Lohman of Hamilton, president of the Michigan Poultry Improvement association and member of the national poultry industry advisory committee, reported WFA officials were so worried over the egg supply outlook last fall that they were strong for putting the $1 a hen subsidy plan into effect.

"The industry warned WFA that farmers would probably sell whole flocks to collect the subsidy because many hens do not net their owners $1 per bird in eggs," Lohman reported.

Consumers Eat Up Surplus The Michigan poultry leader said industry spokesmen countered with proposals that WFA lower its support prices and progressively adjust retail egg price ceilings downward in line with seasonal declines to producers in an effort to stimulate consumer demand.

"We contended that consumers would eat up the surplus if eggs were priced right," said Lohman. "Subsequent developments have proved we were right."

At the time the $1 a hen subsidy was proposed, Lohman said WFA officials had visions of a 25,000,000-case surplus of eggs piling up in produce warehouses this spring and no place to put the poultry product.

There is a growing belief in industry circles that WFA was misinformed regarding the size of farm flocks and the ages of the laying birds. While egg production has shown week to week seasonal increases, the receipts have fallen under supplies in the corresponding periods a year ago.

It was mid-February before it really began to dawn on farmers that the much talked about egg and poultry surpluses had changed into shortages. Since then hatcheries have been booking

Containers Are Needed For Clothing Collection

Donations of wooden boxes and paper cartons are needed for the packing of clothing gathered in the United National Clothing Collection campaign, it was announced yesterday by Arthur M. Gilbert, general chairman of the drive.

The container collection committee, headed by Harlan Yelland, chairman, will contact stores and industrial firms this week to solicit contributions of used boxes and cartons. Other members of the committee are: Alfred Brandt, Emerson Harvey, H. C. Gerletti and Rev. J. G. Ward.

Plans for the campaign were again discussed at a meeting of the executive committee at the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce office yesterday afternoon.

The Salvation Army building, 614 Ludington street, was designated as the central packing and shipping headquarters. Tables and sorting bins will be set up there within the next few days.

Just what kind of a plan will be followed in the collection of clothing in the residential district will be decided at a meeting of the collection committee to be held this week. Captain Milton Anderson of the Salvation Army is chairman. Other members are Frances Allen, A. V. Aronson, S. N. Bradford, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Council, E. E. Edick, A. J. Geartts and Mrs. John Lucke.

General Chairman Gilbert yesterday urged every family to begin at once to search their attics, storerooms and closets for suitable clothing to donate to the suffering war victims overseas. What is needed is good substantial used clothing for both winter and summer wear. Although clothing need not be in perfect repair, it must be useful to the people who will receive it. Underclothing and all types of cotton garments should be washed before they are donated, but they need not be ironed. Infants garments of all types are urgent demand, particularly knit goods.

V-E Day

AN appeal to the workers of the nation to stick to their jobs, whatever that job may be, even when V-E Day comes, has been made by James F. Byrnes, war man-power mobilizer. "V-E Day" is the designation adopted for that gladstone day when the once great German war machine accepts unconditional surrender and lays down its arms, to bring the carnage of the European war to a close. The approach of that day is indicated by reports from the battle fronts within Germany, where confusion and lack of organized resistance to Allied arms, increases with each passing day.

V-E Day will be a happy day for the boys of America, fighting on the German battle fronts. It will be a happy day for the families of those American boys. It will be a happy day for all America. But with another great war still to be fought in the Pacific, we, as a nation, cannot afford to pause in our war efforts, to celebrate even the greatest military victory of all time.

It is fitting that the individual entrusted with the responsibility of furnishing the man-power, to keep the wheels of war production whirling, should appeal for sobriety and patriotic appreciation of the job that lies ahead, when the first half of our war program has been accomplished.

It will be, rather, a day for conscientious thanksgiving to Almighty God for the part He has played in bringing victory to the cause of righteousness and justice, as represented by Allied arms.

Every church in America will be open on the night of V-E Day. There will be room there for you.

Another Stepping Stone

THE battle for Okinawa, strategic island in the Ryukus chain, less than 400 miles from Japan proper and the mainland of North China, is by far the most important campaign thus far in the war in the Pacific. Once Okinawa is secured in our hands, it will become a powerful dagger digging deeply into the very core of Japanese militarism.

The ultimate success of the Okinawa campaign is assured, although bitter fighting and heavy casualties may be anticipated before the island is secured. The American invasion army on Okinawa has been reported as 100,000 men, considerably in excess of the Japanese garrison there.

As a prelude to the Okinawa landings, American troops wrested a series of small nearby islands from the Japs, some of which presumably can be utilized for landing strips. Okinawa itself has three airfields which most certainly will be developed to spread the might of American air power even more effectively against the Japanese homeland.

Despite the comparative ease with which American troops landed on Okinawa and drove inland to secure the beachheads, bloody fighting is in prospect. The Japs will have to fight with everything they have in an effort to keep our forces away from this southern door to Japan. The fact that their task is hopeless will not diminish the ferocity of their resistance, as the Iwo Jima campaign proved so conclusively.

From air bases on Okinawa, we shall be able to attack not only all of Japan with heavy bomb loads, but Japanese dominated industrial areas in North China, including the great port of Shanghai. Even Japanese shipping in coastal waters will be under the bomb sights of American war planes, not just occasionally, but on an around-the-clock basis.

Railroad Tie Shortage

SHARP decline in the production of cross-ties the past several months, as a result of the shortage of labor and unsatisfactory prices as compared with those producers receive for other forest products, is a matter for serious concern just now for the American railroads.

The railroads will be able to get by with their tie replacements this year, although they will not obtain the quota of 60,000,000 ties they have set as their minimum requirements for 1945. Last year's renewals totaled about 48,500,000, and it is doubtful the figure will be reached this year. Since it takes from 12 to 18 months to season and treat ties, many of the timbers that were produced last winter cannot be installed until 1946.

The tie treatment plant of the Chicago and North Western railway has been unable in wartime to fill its needs with ties produced in the Lake States region and has been obliged to buy from southern producers. Significant wartime development has been the sharp drop in the production of hand hewn ties in the South, where the farmers and backwoods settlers have found it more profitable to cut making ties for jobs in war industries, cottonfields and other lumbering operations.

During the depression years, most American railroads were forced to economize on tie renewals. Since the wartime boom, their roadbeds have been receiving a terrific pounding, and the need for new cross-ties has been readily apparent. The railroads are now financially able and anxious to make the necessary improvements, but an impending tie shortage may prevent them from doing so.

Postwar Planning

POSTWAR planning will get a real start in Michigan after July 1, when Escanaba and other cities up to 150,000 or so in population will be provided with funds to help make plants, according to word from Washington.

It is expected that a sum of about $35,000,000 will become available for postwar planning by medium-sized and smaller cities, counties and special districts.

Senate and House conferees will soon decide the exact amount to be made available. The House approved an appropriation of only $5,000,000, but terrific pressure for more money is expected to result in final Senate-House approval of a sum around $35,000,000 already approved by the Senate.

The need for postwar planning was emphasized by the 1944 survey of the Federal Works Agency, which showed that only 30 cities and 19 counties of Michigan had done anything about planning. Escanaba was one of these.

The survey also showed that of about $11 million of authorized postwar projects plans for only $1 billion worth have been completed, and that most of the projects are still in the idea stage.

The FWA is now considering rules and regulations for the administration of postwar planning, expected to become a sizeable government program. Federal funds will be appropriated among the states, but most of these funds will be allocated among smaller-sized governmental units who do not have facilities of their own for detailed postwar planning.

Other Editorial Comments

SPUDUGLIES (Grand Rapids Press)

The house of representatives has passed and sent to the senate a bill introduced by Representative Bert J. Storey of Beiding providing for the creation of a new potato grade to be known as "Michigan standard." It is designed primarily to provide a more profitable outlet for Chippewa potatoes showing a high percentage of scuffed and bruised skins. Harvested prematurely or immaturely, Chippewas and some other varieties skin easily.

There may be a need for such a grade, but we shudder at the thought of having the word Michigan identified with any potato standard which certainly is going to lack eye appeal. It also makes us wonder whether the standard may reflect upon the quality and reputation of all Michigan potatoes. The possibility of unfavorable consumer reaction should be explored fully by the senate before it decides to follow the example set by the house.

The good reputation of Michigan potatoes has been enhanced in recent years by the adoption of the federal grades as the official standards and by the inauguration of compulsory federal-state inspection. A preferential demand for our potatoes has developed in many markets. Grading and inspection have worked to bring the quality of Michigan tubers to a comparable level with the best spuds from other states and the price disparity has been narrowed or completely eliminated. This price improvement is a definite result of better standardization.

Because of this commendable progress, we are inclined to challenge the wisdom of any legislative effort to lower or weaken Michigan potato standards, especially at a time when competitors in some other states, who have their eyes on the Detroit market are tightening their grades and even washing their tubers to enhance the consumer eye appeal. Farmers can't hope to hold old friends and make new ones by offering them an inferior product, whether it be potatoes, apples, onions or other foodstuffs.

Some romance may develop from this. Most of the donors are girls and many a Marine, pocketing her tag after a transfusion, has remarked, "I am gonna look out that babe when I get back."—Pharmacist's Mate 2/c Edward H. Reinhart of Shepherdstown, W. Va., at Iwo.

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—If it were not obvious before, it is now perfectly clear that the San Francisco conference must be postponed. I say that knowing very well how extensive are the preparations already made for that conclave of statesmen.

It would have been difficult under any circumstances to reach an agreement short of weeks of debate. That debate would probably have occurred just as the war reached its climatic end.

Now with unhappy impunity comes the disclosure that Russia and the United States intend to ask for three votes each in the United Nations assembly. They agreed to that secretly at Yalta.

This decision by Stalin and Roosevelt multiplies all the objections raised against the Dumbarton Oaks proposal by the smaller powers. It seemed that they were being asked merely to ratify the decisions of the big four who would control the security council. That is what Foreign Minister Elco Van Kleffens of the Dutch government in London said more or less openly in his memorandum on the San Francisco conference.

—SMALL POWERS DISMAYED—

But with three votes each, Russia and the United States could swing all decisions on drafting committees and on the special commissions to be created. I have talked with several diplomats from the smaller powers who express frank dismay at this latest turn of events.

Before the disclosure of the secret voting agreement at Yalta members of delegations from the secondary powers talked of a minimum of six weeks at San Francisco and a maximum of eight weeks or longer. That would almost certainly make the conference coincide with the end of organized resistance in Germany.

What would happen then; Foreign Minister Anthony Eden would have to go back to London. So would Bidault of France, Spaak of Belgium, Van Kleffens of Holland and all the other chairmen of delegations. They simply could not be out of Europe with decisions being taken that will shape the future for decades to come. In fact, they must help to make those decisions.

How long the newest developments might be expected to prolong the debate no one can say. But certainly it will prolong it.

Delegates who will represent the secondary powers at San Francisco have regarded the Dutch memorandum as a rallying point for their own dissatisfaction with the way in which power is concentrated in the Big Four. One of the ambassadors, in an off-the-record talk, put it this way:

"We think the Van Kleffens memorandum went too far. Nevertheless, we intend to stand behind it—to a point. Not, let me say, to a point that would prevent any agreement, at all being reached."

—FRANCE WAS OFFENDED—

That was before the secret voting agreement bombshell was dropped. Today this same ambassador might feel even more strongly about the power tactics of the big three.

I have just been in France and I think I know what the secret agreement will mean there. They were deeply offended at not having been asked to participate in the final days of the Yalta conference when the fate of Germany was discussed. Then, supposedly, they were informed of all the decisions taken at Yalta. Now, according to a dispatch from Paris, Foreign Minister Bidault reads in the newspapers of the secret agreement.

There is still another reason for post-nomine. Russia has announced that her ambassador to Washington, Andrei Gromyko, will head the Soviet delegation rather than Foreign Minister Molotov or one of the top men around Stalin.

This will almost certainly make for further delay. Whatever one may think of Gromyko's capacities as a diplomat—and his colleagues have high respect for him—he will not be able to say yes or no without consulting Moscow, and that takes time.

A perfectly good reason for postponement is written in the headlines that leap out of every newspaper. You cannot lay out the framework of a new world at the exact moment that the old one is in final collapse.

Put it off until midsummer or even early fall. Then the problems to be confronted will be much clearer. There will not be the same desperate urgency. And perhaps in that interval of time it will be possible to mend the serious damage done to confidence by the news of a secret agreement at Yalta.

the long "I" sound. But in all other words in which it occurs the suffix -cycle is pronounced exactly like the word cycle. Motorcycle, then, is: MOE-ter-SY-kel.

Here's a surprise word for you: fluorescent. How do you pronounce it—"fluoh-RESS-ent"? It's hard to believe, but this increasingly important word should have four syllables. If your dictionary lists the word, you'll find it syllabified thus: flu-o-res-cent. The accents fall on the first and third syllables, thus: FLOO-oh-RESS-ent. And a fluoro-scope, by means of which a physician takes a look at our innards, is correctly called: FLOO-oh-roo-scope.

How to Cure an Appetite for Rich Fare

Good Morning!

By The Bugler

THE COAST GUARD—The United States Coast Guard, one of the four major branches of our armed forces, has a long and honorable record of service. Now that the Coast Guard has opened Escanaba harbor to shipping, and uniformed members of its ships crews are again in evidence here it might be well to become better acquainted with the organization.

The Coast Guard in war is a fairly familiar story, but few know that it is only in time of war or other emergency that the coast guard, by order of the president, is placed under the administration of the navy department. Otherwise it operates as a separate unit.

BM 2/c R. A. "Bob" Northrup of Chillicothe, Ohio, of the Coast Guard cutter Almond, knows the story of the Coast Guard forward and backward, although his has been only wartime service for the past two and one-half years. Arriving in Escanaba, and with a few hours shore leave, Bob looked up a fraternity brother, George Lindenthal of the Daily Press.

While visiting the Press office he was questioned about the Coast Guard and supplied information for "a get acquainted" column.

VARIED DUTIES—History of the Coast Guard is old and honorable, but it is also varied because of the many duties which the Coast Guard is called upon to perform.

Back in 1790—seven years before the first U. S. war vessel was launched—the revenue cutter service was established. If you know your American history it shouldn't be necessary to tell you that George Washington was president at that time. The first revenue cutter fleet consisted of 10 small, single-masted sailing vessels, each with a crew of 10 men.

It was the revenue service which blazed the trail to Alaska, and it was the revenue service that often found itself involved in brushes with thieving Japanese pirates in Alaskan waters. Most important work of the revenue cutter service was the enforcement of statutes affecting the country's interests at sea.

Another branch of the Coast Guard is the life saving service, which was organized in 1871. The first life saving station in this country was a small shanty on the New Jersey coast. Annually the life saving branch of the Coast Guard rescues thousands of persons and saves property valued at millions of dollars.

ALWAYS READY—The revenue cutter service and the life saving service were combined in 1915 by an act of congress and became the United States Coast Guard. Slogan of the Coast Guard is Semper Paratus, which MC 2/c Northrup translates as "Always Ready." Whether this slogan antedates 1915 he didn't say.

IN WARTIME—The officers of the Coast Guard are on the same footing, with respect to pay and rank, as the officers of the army and navy. Indeed, it is an integral part of the military arm of the nation.

The Coast Guard was with Dewey at Manila, it provided transport service in the Mexican war, in Civil War days it enforced the blockade that did much to bring the war to an end; and in the last World War and today it is making an outstanding contribution to victory.

In fact in World War I according to casualties in percentages of the total number of men, the Coast Guard lost more than any other branch of the armed forces, says BM 2/c Northrup. At that time the Coast Guard had a total of only 10,000 men in its service.

THE ESCANABA—In the last war the Coast Guard lost one of its largest ships, the cutter Tampa. In this war the greatest tragedy suffered by the Coast Guard was the loss with all but two hands of the cutter Escanaba in the North Atlantic.

ONE OF FIRSTS—In 1919 a Coast Guard pilot, one of a crew of four on a navy ship, flew the Atlantic ocean.

REORGANIZATION—The Coast Guard added to its already varied duties in 1939 when, through a reorganization of federal departments, it took over administration of the lighthouse service. The maintenance of light houses, buoys and other aids to navigation thus became the responsibility of the Coast Guard.

ITS ACADEMY—At New London, Conn., the Coast Guard has its academy, comparable to the Annapolis of the navy and West Point of the army.

Yet there is this difference. Entrance to the Coast Guard academy is by open competitive examination held each year. There are no appointments such as those made by congressmen of youths from their districts to Annapolis and West Point.

ITS SHIPS—The Coast Guard has many ships designed for its many types of service all over the world. One of the oldest of the lighthouse service ships on the Great Lakes is the tender Marigold, launched about 1897 and still in service on the Detroit river and Lake Huron. Others of the tender type are the Hollyhock and Hyacinth. Smaller tenders are the Cherry and Dahlia.

Among the newer "general utility" ships are those bearing "tree names" such as the Sassafras, Rosebud, Mesquite, Pinetree, Basswood and Sweetgum. Diesel powered, they are used in convoy escort on the ocean, as buoy tenders and other uses.

The Lyons Den

By Leonard Lyons

LABOR DEPT.: Vincent Bendix, the industrialist who died this week, once controlled a factory in which one of the earliest sit-down strikes was called. Bendix broke the strike this way: "As long as you're going to stay here all night, the strikers were told, "we might as well make you comfortable. Here are some mattresses and blankets." A few hours later food was brought to them. This was followed by a few cases of liquor, and then some ladies were sent to entertain them. Finally, the strikers' wives were brought into the plant and the strike was broken.

HOME DEPT.: In North Carolina a few days ago Josephus Daniels introduced Eleanor Roosevelt to a large crowd. "Woman's place is in the home," said Daniels, "and in the case of Eleanor Roosevelt, home is the land, the sea and the air."

LOST & FOUND: The engineers who built the Leda Road must be on the constant alert for washouts. Every day some section of the road must be rebuilt because the streams have washed it over the precipice. One day, after a heavy rainfall, Lord Louis Mountbatten was in a plane making a routine inspection tour. He looked down, studied his map, and asked his aide: "What river is that down below? I don't see it on my map." "That's not a river," his aide reminded him, "that's the Leda Road."

SPORTS DEPT.: Jimmy Walker was in Toots Shore's yesterday and was asked how he felt. "These days," he sighed, "if you're standing up, you're a winner." He saw Lou Nova, who is fighting Joe Bakshi at the Garden Friday night. "If Nova can't lick Bakshi," said Walker, "he'd better be polite to me."

BOOK DEPT.: Just before she left for Europe Dorothy Thompson read John Gunther's "Troubled Midnight." Because of her strong views on the German problem she concentrated on the chapter in which Leslie, the American heroine, and Hugo, the Nazi agent, exchange ideas about their respective ideologies. Miss Thompson didn't approve of the heroine's point of view. She therefore rewrote the dialogue in the chapter, to strengthen the argument, and presented it to Gunther.

HISTORY DEPT.: The young commander of a destroyer floundered in a storm, and in a fog which completely enveloped his ship. He hoisted to and decided to stay there until the storm abated and the fog lifted. In the morning, when the fog lifted, he saw a Jap-held island only a short distance away, where land-based planes could reach him. Nearby also was a Jap man-of-war. The destroyer immediately fired all its guns. When all the ammunition was gone, the commander announced to his crew: "John Paul Jones notwithstanding, the time has come to get the hell out of here."

CELEBRATION DEPT.: The Mayor has sent out invitations to 50 of New York's most prominent citizens—including radio executives, artists, Samuel Seabury, Archbishop Spellman, Bishop Manning and Rabbi Wise—to organize an appropriate celebration for V-E Day. The committee will stress that V-E Day does not mean the end of the war, and that difficult battles still are ahead. It will appeal to the citizens' religious and patriotic spirits. The most prominent artists in the city will help entertain at this community celebration.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

DREW PEARSON

(Lt. Col. R. S. Allen now on active service)

Washington—For months the Albanian radio has been broadcasting daily appeals to the outside world for food, clothing and medical supplies. But although UNRRA is supposed to care for the war-torn countries, and although Albania has suffered more than most, UNRRA still has been unable to enter Albania.

Backstage reason, according to UNRRA officials, is that the British want to send 1,200 British army officers into Albania to supervise UNRRA relief for UNRRA.

This, in turn, horrifies the Albanians. A total of 1,200 British officers in tiny Albania could mean a throttle-hold on the country, if they wanted to exercise it. And knowing all too vividly what happened when Great Britain went into neighboring Greece, the Albanians refuse to admit the British military.

Faced with starvation or military domination, they have chosen starvation.

The British proposal to send 1,200 officers into Albania is based upon an agreement that whenever a country is liberated, relief supplies must be the responsibility of the allied military for the first six months and UNRRA must work under the military.

However, Albania was never occupied by any allied army. Neither British nor U. S. troops entered it. But now that the Nazis have been completely chased out, the British want to come in under the excuse of administering UNRRA relief.

The Albanians see no excuse for trading one set of foreign troops for another.

Note—The British also demanded of Tito that they send more than a thousand British officers to handle UNRRA relief inside Yugoslavia, but Tito refused. Finally Russia backed him up and Tito got his UNRRA relief without British troops—only 40 UNRRA workers and 60 British workers. UNRRA officials are hoping that the British will make some similar compromise in regard to Albania.

—BYRNES AND BATTLESHIPS

Secretary of the Navy Forrestal was irked when war mobilizer Byrnes chopped 72 warships off the navy's program, but the admirals were not merely irked. They were fighting mad—especially Admiral Ernie King.

Byrnes had found out that the navy was planning these ships for post-war, not this war. He knew their construction would take away valuable steel from the army and other strategic uses.

For instance, the tractor and farm-machinery program is scheduled for a cut of about 40 per cent because the army claims it is already short of steel. This, despite the desperate need of producing more food. So Byrnes figured the post-war ships could wait until after the war, since they won't be finished for two years or so anyway. Also he figured that it was perhaps the job of Congress—not the admirals—to decide how big the post-war navy should be.

All of which nearly broke the heart of Admiral King. He had been talking for months of starting now to build a post-war navy; also had been indiscreet regarding the country—now an ally—against which those ships might be used. Maybe this also got back to Byrnes.

—CIRCUS GOES TO JAIL—

The circus stopped in Washington to water the animals the other day on its regular trip north. It stopped a little sorrowfully. There was none of the blare and fanfare and braggadocio of the old days. It was going north to open a new season and try to pay several million dollars to the Hartford fire, after which its vice-president, its manager, its canvasman, its seatman, and several others will surrender in Hartford to go to jail.

These top executives looked visibly different this year. Jim Haley, vice-president and director, is a long slab-sided chap from Alabama, who is called "Slim" and is thin anyway. But now he has lost thirty pounds and is literally wasting away.

Twenty years ago he came down to Sarasota, Fla., from the Alabama sandhills without a nickel in his pocket, educated himself and slaved his way up until he was appointed general manager of the Ringling estate. It was his careful handling which reduced the estate's debt to the government from $4,000,000 to around $850,000.

He even took over the Red Cross chairmanship, pulled the chapter out of debt, and made it one of the first counties in the United States to triple its quota for three straight years.

Slim Haley went into the circus as financial manager at the request of the several factions of the Ringling family, whose descendants have been fighting each other. He never pretended to be a circus man. He was a fiscal agent. But he was in Hartford on the day of the fatal fire, was arrested, and sentenced to a maximum of five years in jail.

The seatman on the fatal day had set up the seats exactly as he had before, day-in-and-day-out, for years. Also the canvasman. Then came the fire, the tragic stampede, the scores of children crushed.

Jim Haley and the other circus men go round a lot with a haunted look, remembering that day. They look as if they themselves were now dying by inches. And after they get the circus launched for the season—they hope to pay several millions damages—they are going up to Hartford—and jail.

"The Watch on the Rhine" has changed to the march beyond!

There soon will be plenty of war plants right in our back yards—those that bear vegetables!

DONALD NAULT WAR PRISONER

Local Soldier Missing

Held In Germany

Pvt. Donald Nault, who was reported missing in action in Germany since Dec. 16, the day the Germans launched their big counter-offensive that created the Belgium bulge, is a prisoner of war in Germany, his wife learned from a card received yesterday from her husband. Mrs. Nault resides at 213 North 18th street.

Pvt. Nault entered military service a year ago last September and went overseas last November. He moved to the front Dec. 11 and was there only five days when he was captured in the big German drive. He was a member of the 106th Infantry, which bore the brunt of the German blow.

In the postal card written from the German prison camp, Pvt. Nault indicated that he had previously written a letter to his wife but she has not yet received it. The arrival of the postcard yesterday was the first information received by Mrs. Nault that her husband is a prisoner of war. She has not yet been officially notified by the war department.

Rotary Club Hears Rev. Steen Recount Life Of Explorer

The Escanaba Rotary club at its meeting yesterday noon at the Delta hotel was entertained by the story of the courageous life of Capt. C. L. Larson, Norwegian explorer and whaling ship captain, as presented by the Rev. Otto Steen, pastor of the First Methodist church. Rev. Steen was born in Norway and in 1914 at the age of 17 visited the Antarctic where the whaling industry had been established through Capt. Larson's efforts.

Born in 1860, Capt. Larson took naturally to the sea as his father had before him. At the age of 22 he was captain on a whaler and sailed his ship in the Arctic off Greenland. As the whaling fishing declined there he and a friend decided to explore the whaling possibilities in the Antarctic.

In October, 1892, they reached South Georgia and Graham's Land near the South Pole. It was the first of many hazardous voyages to the Antarctic headed by Capt. Larson, who in 1901 commanded a scientific trip to the Antarctic at the request of Swedish scientists. Two years of great danger and hardship, with the loss of the vessel but the death of only one man, ended with the rescue of the expedition by an Argentine war-ship.

Capt. Larson raised money for another expedition, this time to Ross Sea in the Antarctic. And it was there that, after successfully bringing the expedition onto one of the richest whaling areas of the world, he died aboard his ship Dec. 8, 1924.

Rev. Steen's talk was interesting and informative, doubly so because of his own experiences as a boy while sailing on a square-rigged sailing ship.

itowoc, which took a cargo of 9100 tons of ore. The Reiss arrived shortly after midnight Monday morning and the first load of ore tumbled into her hold at 1:40 a. m. She cleared the harbor here yesterday morning at 10 o'clock for a Lake Erie port.

The L. E. Block, of the Inland steel fleet, was second in line and cleared at 11:20. The George Fink was loaded and out of the harbor at five p. m., with the P. D. Block following within an hour. The Canopus and H. R. Jones arrived here in midafternoon and were being loaded last night.

The Roving Reporter

By ERNIE PYLE

In the Western Pacific—(delayed)—When our planes come back from a strike, they circle around the ship until they get the signal to land.

Then they break out of formation one at a time into what is called the "landing circle." They try to space it so that one plane will be landed and clear of the "barrier," just as the next one approaches.

When an approaching pilot is about half a mile out, the landing signal officer begins giving him sign-language instructions.

The landing signal officer is known as the LSO. He is one of the most important men on the ship. He is a flier himself. But his is no part-time job that is traded around among the pilots. He has been especially trained, and that is his sole job.

The LSO stands on a platform just off the stern. Behind him is a large square of canvas, to make a background for his signals. Underneath the platform is a heavy rope netting, to catch him if he should fall off.

He wears a yellow sweater and yellow helmet, so the incoming pilots can easily spot him. And in each hand is a paddle about twice the size of a ping-pong paddle. They are either yellow or bright orange. These are his signal paddles.

From the moment the LSO starts his signals, the incoming pilot never takes his eyes off of him. From that point on, the LSO actually flies the plane by remote control, and the pilot is only a robot who does what the LSO tells him to do.

By sign language, the LSO tells him he's too high or too low, too fast or too slow, that his tail hook isn't down, or a dozen different things.

The pilot corrects these mistakes as he approaches. If his correction is perfect, the LSO gives him the "cut" sign just before he reaches the flight deck.

Instantly he takes his eyes off the LSO and once more begins flying his own plane. Only half a dozen seconds are left. He has to act fast, and get that plane down.

But if the approach isn't quite "right," then the LSO at the very last second gives him a frantic "wave off" signal, and the pilot "pours on the coal," misses the deck by a scant few feet, and goes around for another try.

The LSO must decide at the last moment, actually in the fraction of a second, whether to let the pilot try it or not. I don't know of any situation that requires faster mind-making-up. You sure can't go into "conference" with anybody on that one.

The landing signal officer on our ship is a fine man. His name is Bill Green and he comes from Newton, Ia. He is a Lieutenant.

He graduated from a Commerce Course at the University of Iowa in 1942, and was honorable mention for all American that year. He intends to be a lawyer.

An LSO must be a flier himself; second, he must be a man of steady nerves and sound judgment; and third he must be a psychologist in a way, and know his pilots.

Bill Green is all three. Everybody likes him, and everybody has faith in him. It would be a sad bunch of pilots who had an incompetent LSO.

Bill knows the flying traits of each pilot so well that he can identify every one just by the movements of his plane, when he is still a mile from the ship!

In watching our landings, I saw one pilot "wave off" seven times one day before he got in. So I asked Bill if that was a record. He said it certainly was not. A few months ago he had to wave off a pilot 21 times before he finally got aboard. Which meant that one pilot was trying to land for almost two hours!

The landing signal officer's job is a precarious one. Many a time Bill had to duck, jump or even run. The ship's photo lab has a marvelous picture of Bill actually being chased across the deck by a plane making a near-crash landing.

There is always an assistant LSO on every carrier, in training to take over a regular job himself. Bill's assistant is Ensign Kal Porter, of Ogden, Utah.

One day I got up my nerve, and went back and stood with them while they landed a whole flight of planes. You would swear every plane was going to land right on top of you. Before it was over I had decided that if I were running the navy, I'd let them all land in the water.

EXPLANATION

Note this Sample Puzzle. Notice the objects illustrated and the plus and minus signs, which mean that you add or subtract.
You see the letters O-A followed by a plus sign after which comes an object that is obviously an ARM. Therefore, to O-A you add the letters A-R-M, which gives you O-A-A-R-M. Then you subtract R as directed, leaving O-A-A-M. Next comes a plus sign followed by a PEN, so you add P-E-N, giving you O-A-A-M-P-E-N. To which you now add RING, plus the letter I, as directed. Thus, you have O-A-A-M-P-E-N-R-I-N-G-I, from which you then subtract PIANO. So you cross out the letters P-I-A-N-O, leaving A-M-E-R-N-G-I-C-A-N, from which you finally subtract the letters G-N-N, giving you AMERICA as the solution.

Island Town In Maine Sticks To Its Knitting

Vinalhaven, Maine—Fifteen miles off the Maine coast, in Penobscot Bay, the island town of Vinalhaven has had its ups and downs since its first settlement in 1765. While originally a fishing village, it rose to its highest prosperity with the development of the granite industry. By 1880 the population had grown to over 2800, and granite was being cut in several sizable quarries for monuments and buildings in distant cities. A number of these were for the federal government in Washington, including the big state war and navy building, and the old United States Post Office, long a landmark on Pennsylvania avenue—so that these days are still referred to nostalgically by older inhabitants as "government times." No doubt the most lasting and impressive memorial to this period will always be the eight beautiful columns in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York City. Each massive monolith as cut from the island quarry was 64 feet long, 7 feet in width, and weighed 310 tons.

Attracted Skilled Artisans

The finer stone-cutting and polishing brought to the island a good many skilled artisans and their families from Scotland. These people with their active community spirit, their annual "Bobbie Burns" concerts (complete with kilts and bag-pipes) and their athletic contests, fitted easily into a town where practically all were descendants of early English, Scotch, and Irish settlers. Later, when Indiana limestone and other materials began to supplant the perhaps too-enduring granite in a shifting world, there was still a market for paving blocks from the coarser stone. This phase of the work brought to town many Swedes who have stayed on as citizens.

The decline of the granite business was a hard blow to Vinalhaven, but of course there were still the fishing and some other resources so that the town did not "fold up" as did its little neighbor island Hurricane, which, with the closing of its quarry, became almost overnight a ghost town, and has now gone completely back to nature.

The days of extensive granite construction were also the horse-and-buggy days; and while the quarries had been booming, there had developed a more modest industry of particular interest to the island women. This was the making of horse-nets—large back trappings and little earflaps, often tasseled and gayly colored, which were designed to keep flies from tormenting horses.

Such work was a natural outgrowth of the net-knitting done by the local fishermen and their families who had long been knitting with stout twine the lobster-pot heads, bait bags, dip nets, and all the other nets that are an essential part of their "gear." At first the twine for the nets was given out by an agency for home knitting entirely; but by 1900, there was a big white wooden factory with machinery installed, which employed about 75 women besides all the home-knitters. The former superintendent of this factory, Mark Smith, is authority for the information that these nets were sent all over the United States, particularly to the middle west.

Auto Ruined Business

But once again, with the advent of the motor age, Vinalhaven was to lose an industry. Gradually horses all but disappeared from the highways, there was no further demand for the bright trappings, and the net factory was abandoned.

The fishing remained, and all the potential knitters. After supplying the local needs, these women began to look about for wider markets; and several, making contact with commercial net-buyers, started small agencies, giving out twine on a piece-work basis to women eager to earn something at home.

Then came the new wage-hour law, and it looked as though the knitters would once more be balked in their earning since the companies buying their nets found it impossible to reconcile the law's requirements with individual piece-work done by the women in their homes evenings and at odd hours. Perseverance and adaptability found the solution: the forming of a cooperative.

With the advice of the Maine State Department of Education, and the assistance of the Maine Handicraft Guild, the Vinalhaven

Handicraft Cooperative Inc. was organized in 1940. The officers consist of a president, a vice-president, a secretary-treasurer and a board of directors, with the important addition of a salaried clerk who formerly had her own net agency, and whose knowledge of markets, twines, bookkeeping, and local knitters is of inestimable value to the organization.

Co-op Has 153 Members

The president of the Handicraft Cooperative is Mrs. May Lawry, a friendly vivacious person who had some experience with village co-operation in connection with a local credit union, and also with a summer work-play project directed by counselors from a Friends' camp. The Cooperative rents a room on Main street where at stated hours Mrs. Charlotte Bray, the efficient clerk, ably assisted by Mrs. Villa Ames, the secretary-treasurer, gives out twine, receives the nets, and packs them for shipping.

The Cooperative buys the twine and sells it to the knitters; then buys back the nets and markets them. The members pay 25 cents dues, and after all expenses for the year are paid, receive, besides their regular pay for nets, a bonus from whatever profit is left. Since its beginning the Cooperative has registered 153 members, though not all have kept up their membership to date.

At present, because of wartime priorities, the group can obtain cotton twine only for nets used in commercial fishing—such as landing nets, eel funnels, dip nets, crab nets; and nets for the army—including little caudery bags, sausage bags, pudding bags and some articles with uses that puzzles the knitters themselves. But in normal times, their nets cover a wide variety, including basket-ball goal nets, pool table pockets, tennis net wedges, pleasant nets, shopping bags, novelty caps, and many other things for sport and utility. One unusual item is a little wig foundation, fine work done with nylon thread—when that is obtainable. In short, equipped with their wooden needles, meshboards, and twine, there is nothing in the net-knitting line that daunts these island knitters.

Call For Quiz

Kids At Library

Chicago—The question and answer game at the reference desk of the Chicago Public Library has hit an all-time high—currently more than 5,000 telephone calls and 23,000 personal visits per month.

Library officials attribute the dizzy pace to radio quiz programs, especially those which put up a single inquiry, phone people at random and pay a reward for the right reply.

As soon as a new poser is launched, the library's switchboard glitters like a diamond merchant's show window. Sometimes all the lines in the big building are tied up.

They've had to suit method to this madness. The staff gets a question hot off the mike, rushes copies of the answer to all personnel. So they were prepared for this puzzler: "What actress first won the Academy Award?"

When the freshest of calls started, the room resounded to the steady chant: "Janet Gaynor, Janet Gaynor, Janet Gaynor."

Now, they're toying with the idea of putting the answer to the most question of the day on a telephone and record hookup like the automatic weather reports.

Assistant Librarian Gertrude Geheide says the going gets pretty tough, but to date they've come up with answers to all but this one:

Did Mrs. Coolidge leave a quilt in the White House?

Sgt. Scheer Awarded Medal Posthumously

The medal has been received here by Mrs. Francis Zeeger, 625 So. 16th street, an aunt of Sgt. Scheer, who will give the medal to Sergeant Scheer's brother, Pfc. William Scheer, now stationed in Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

TOTAL DESTRUCTION . . . as illustrated by Cologne—Cologne typifies the fate that has already been met by many German cities and the lot in store for others in the path of the Allied advance. Fourth-largest city in the Reich, the Rhineland capital has been reduced to a pile of rubble and skeletons of buildings by constant Allied air blows and artillery barrages. "City after city has been systematically shattered," Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower reported after a tour of Nazi strongholds taken by the Yanks. Cologne was 60 per cent destroyed, with over 2000 acres laid flat. Duisburg and Hamburg, home of the Thyssen steel works, have been 40 per cent destroyed. Half of Essen, home of the Krupp works, has been leveled. Duesseldorf is 65 per cent ruined, Bochum, 83 per cent; and Dortmund, 46 per cent. (NEA Photo.)

It's Garden Time For Mrs. Benzo, Norway's Champion

For 40 years Mrs. Catherine Benzo of Norway, Mich., cultivated her garden like any good home gardener, and didn't expect anyone to make a fuss over it. Of course, she did make her mark in the Dickinson County Fair. She won 46 blue ribbons, and it got so that nobody would enter a tomato against hers. But, after all, others win prizes in county fairs. She was just a good home gardener, she thought.

Then came a state contest for victory gardeners, and Mrs. Benzo encouraged by her four children and various grandchildren, entered a book with a record of her work. It was so good that she was picked the winner for the state and presented with a $500 bond.

Well, she reasoned, if she could win a state prize, maybe she ought to enter the national contest. So her book went into the finals, and the next thing Mrs. Benzo knew it had been picked for the national award, a $1,000 War Bond.

And now Mrs. Benzo finds herself a notable. It doesn't bother her in the least. When she was invited recently by the National Victory Garden Institute and Marshall Field & Co. to come to Chicago for a party given in her honor, she put on her black dress, took her bag and came. The microphone and a sizable audience didn't bother her, either. Still talking with an Italian accent, a survival from her girlhood in Turin, Italy, she did her best to tell the city gardeners her secrets of success—how she won the Green Thumbs contest. There's the new formula she got from the county agent for spraying onions so they won't be bothered by insects. She repeated it until she was sure all who wanted it had taken it down. Then she discussed watering vegetables. Never water the tops of plants. Dig a trough around each, and let the water soak in from the bottom. And so on.

Last year Mrs. Benzo grew 37 different kinds of vegetables on her half acre. She canned over 500 quarts of her home-grown crops, supplying her children's families as well as her own. She loves her work. Each year she tries to enlarge her garden a bit, raise something new.

And what is she going to do with her War Bond prizes? Save them, says Mrs. Benzo. This is no

SINUS TROUBLE CAUSE TRAGEDY

Physician's Report Says It's Due To Poor Living Habits

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(AP) Science Editor

New York (AP)—A person's manner of life, eating and sleeping is found to be a cause of sinus trouble in a report by Dr. Sam E. Roberts of Kansas City.

He calls this trouble a new sinus syndrome (group of concurrent symptoms). These symptoms are sinus headaches and snuffiness, fatigue, and pains in various parts of the body. The report appears in transactions of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology.

Fatigue Is Prevalent
"Fatigue," he writes, "has been present to some degree in 87 per cent of our adult patients who consult us for chronic trouble, and complete exhaustion in 50 per cent. They are not the so-called underprivileged."

"They have not been denied medical attention because of economic status, but medical treatment has been ineffective because of lack of organic findings. They arrive in our consulting rooms because of this sinus syndrome."

Dr. Robert's conclusions are based on 4,000 persons observed over a long time.

"You would be surprised," he declares, "as I was, to learn that most of our patients get less than seven hours' sleep—many only four or five. You could not expect them to have a healthy mucous membrane or an alert brain and be free from aches and pain."

with so little rest.

Many Used Cathartics
"I was surprised, and I believe you would be, when you found that 31 per cent of your patients took some form of cathartic at more or less regular intervals, either self-prescribed or advised by a druggist."

"Again, you could not expect your patient to have a healthy mucosa when all cathartics interfere with absorption and assimilation of foods. When the lubricating type is used, such as the mineral oil preparations, it prevents the absorption of vitamin A, essential to the health and physiology of mucous membranes."

Dr. Roberts thinks the sinus trouble is due to a disturbed balance of colloidal chemistry of the body. He says physiology and metabolism are fundamental factors to be considered in treating this type of sinus trouble.

A Warning of Dangerous Complications

If you suffer from High Blood Pressure, and have been unable to improve your condition with old style methods—then take time out now and ask yourself "Why has not my condition improved?"

High Blood Pressure is a warning that something is wrong with your system—something, if let go, may lead to Hardening of the Arteries, a Stroke, Paralysis, Heart Trouble, Kidney Disease, or other grave conditions.

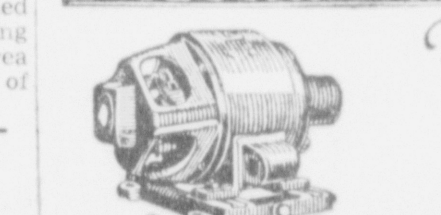

Drugs and medicines that give only temporary relief will not do one bit of good toward removing the cause of your trouble. You must remove or at least control the cause of your trouble before your condition will improve.

The Ball Clinic, through its system of Health Correction, combined with the World's Famous Mineral Waters and Dietetic Food, has developed a new method of treating High Blood Pressure. Every day remarkable results are being achieved with sufferers regaining better health and adding years to their lives.

AMAZING FREE BOOK

In response to the great many who have written them about their modern methods of helping High Blood Pressure sufferers to better health, the Ball Clinic, Dept. 8665, Excelsior Springs, Mo., has prepared an Amazing Free Book entitled "High Blood Pressure—The Killer." It tells how their modern methods correct many basic conditions and troubles—how it may be possible for you to find comforting relief, better health and a new outlook on life. There is no obligation. ## They Listen..To Help Win the War

Folks on rationing boards have listened and listened and listened . . . Junior uses up all of the family shoe stamps . . . Somebody's oil burner is covered with icicles . . . Somebody's share-rider moved away. Yes, they've listened with patience and tried to be fair . . . to be more than helpful when a genuine case of hardship was brought to their attention.

In teaching us what we can do without, rationing has given us a new appreciation of our country's peacetime abundance. It has taught us more. We have learned lessons in self-denial and the value of cooperation . . . lessons that bolster our determination to carry on till final victory is won.

Young and old, we are getting matchless training in early American fortitude and self-reliance. Surely the people of our country will be ready to meet the problems of tomorrow with confidence.

What ration points bring to our tables today would have seemed like banquets to generations of our forefathers—but you have Budweiser, too, to make simple wartime meals taste better.

Ready now—the Spring issue of FASHION. Just 15 cents. A complete guide in planning wardrobe needs for all the family.

BY EPSIE KINARD
NEA Staff Writer

New York—Spring's perennial prints will come out in full bloom for the Easter fancies in ensembles and dresses that can put on a parade from now until the end of summer.

Thanks to the demands of good dress designers, who have adopted prints as pets, motifs are distinctive and styling is kept subordinate to colors and patterns that need no added fussy fashioning to clutter up the silhouette.

Sometimes the bright splash of a dress print reappears in the coat lining. When the color of the coat is keyed to the dominant note of the print you have an ensemble with no peers and few equals in smartness. Previewed at Mme. Sonia's Ritz-Carlton fashion show, the ensemble combines lush tones of mauve and purple in a dress of printed crepe. Teamed up with it is a redingote of purple wool, lined and tied at the neckline with a scarf of matching print.

The styling of print dresses often takes its cue from the pattern of the fabric. If the motif is a large floral pattern, styling is starkly simple, as for example in the dress, shown center, which poses a full skirt of a bright rose-gay pattern printed on a dark background of one-denier rayon, against a dark colored blouse.

But when the print pattern of a dress is subdued, styling is less curbed, as witness the spirited dress (right) featured in a Samuel Kass collection. It owes its saucy appeal to stitched rows of black lace which form a peplum, and soft skirt drapery at the center front.

Worry Clinic

With Case Records Of
A PsychologistBY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE F-211: Alice H., aged 25, is an efficient stenographer.

"I lived on a farm until I was through high school," she began. "My parents didn't believe in letting me go to parties. And they never gave me one bit of advice concerning the facts of life."

"So when I was finally allowed to go with my first beau, he gave me a line which I didn't really believe. But I did what he wanted because I thought if I didn't, he wouldn't come to see me any more, and I'd be left alone, out in the country."

"Well, I kept on doing what he wanted, but I obtained no pleasure from intimate relations. I did it just to satisfy him."

"I got so I finally hated him, so I wrote and told him never to come back to see me, and explained why."

Experience. A Costly Teacher
"That was eight years ago. Since then I have gone with quite a few fellows, but never steadily with any one."

"And I've never allowed myself to become intimate with any of them. At last I have met a boy whom I really love. We are engaged to be married."

"But I am wondering if I marry him, will I be frigid and have no feeling, as I did when I submitted to that other fellow years ago."

"Has my mistake of the past spoiled my chance to be a happy and satisfactory wife?"

The Conditioned Reflex
In psychology we have a mechanism called the "conditioned reflex" which explains how our likes and dislikes develop.

A baby has no native fondness for spinach, for instance, but if we surround the infant with his parents, his toys and all other agents of pleasure at the moment we introduce him to spinach, the greater volume of pleasures will begin to attach to the taste of spinach.

By repeating this process, we can soon make the spinach seem so delightful in its own right that he may reach for it as eagerly as an older child will grab an ice cream cone.

Alice has simply become unpleasantly conditioned, because she submitted under duress and with all her moral attitudes rebelling.

In other words, she was introduced under unfavorable circumstances; hence, she has become so "conditioned" that anger or disgust and fear and dislike are now linked with marital relations.

How Women Become Frigid
Illicit affairs are often the occasions for making girls develop a chronic aversion to marital relations.

That is one of the many good reasons why a girl should wait until marriage.

Even then it requires from six months to a year before the young couple are satisfactorily adjusted to each other.

With all the joys of a beautiful wedding behind her, coupled with a romantic honeymoon and a legal husband who has publicly pledged his devotion and who gives her the stability and public acceptance of a duly married woman, it will take six months to a year before she learns how to obtain much intrinsic delight in her marriage.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long 3c stamped, addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing or printing costs when you send for one of his psychological charts.)

PERFECT SHIPPING is a two-fold goal. Its attainment is possible only with hand-in-glove cooperation between shippers and carriers. In this respect we have been fortunate.

For our shippers have done an excellent job. Even with depleted manpower and sub-standard packaging, you have carefully prepared your shipments from the standpoint of reinforcing, strapping, sealing and marking.

Such splendid cooperation is particularly gratifying in our efforts to meet the wartime demands made upon us.

Seeing service in Germany with the signal corps, close behind the lines where the fighting is heaviest, Sgt. Clifford J. Benwil, writes home to his father, James Benwil, 317 Lake street, that he cannot understand the attitude of some folks back home, who in his mind think more of their selfish interests than they do of the welfare of their country.

He says, in part:

"Some of the things I have seen and been through sort of left me a bit wiser and with a better understanding of what's going on in the world. I am thankful that I am in a communications zone, rather than being in the infantry up at the front, where your life isn't your own and for days you live on borrowed time. Those are the boys who deserve most credit and yet some folks back in the U. S. A. are continually striking. Those folks don't seem to think much of what our boys are doing to keep their country free; they seem to ignore the suffering and the sacrifices, the lives that are being sacrificed, the wounded and crippled who will go through countless more hours of suffering. Yes, all this doesn't seem to mean much to some people who tie up production of vital materials—materials on which the very lives of our men depend.

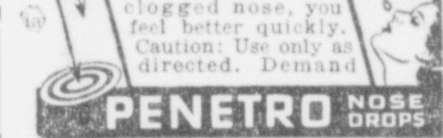

"We who are overseas, have a special hatred for anyone who can be so selfish and ungrateful as to hold up war production back home. The boys will remember these people long after the war is over.

"It takes all sorts of people to make a world, but I would hate to be classed with the group just mentioned."

TO STUDY NEED
FOR FISH LADDERConservation Department
To Make Survey At
Paper Mill Dam

A fishway that will help fish in waters below the dam at the paper mill to migrate to waters at the flume and beyond, may some day be a reality, according to a letter received Saturday from the state department of conservation by John I. Bellaire, secretary of the Manistique Lions club.

The department, however, issues the warning that there are several problems involved in the undertaking, which must be solved before anything definite may be accomplished. There must be definite information as to the species of fish and their numbers in waters below the dam and a fishway of a practical type that will help these fish over the dam must be devised, F. A. Westernman, of the fish division of the department of conservation states.

Mr. Westernman states that some time ago the department discussed the matter with Walter Burns, mayor of Manistique and Stanley Shurt, supervisor of the Regional Fisheries at Thompson and it was understood then that some trap nets would be set in the river below the dam to secure necessary data.

Mr. Westernman gives assurance that his department is interested in working out a solution to the problem.

The question of a fishway was the subject of a recent meeting of the Lions club, by several members of that organization who are interested in fishing and are convinced that a fish ladder would be a practical means of getting fish into the upper channels of the river and thus improve fishing in general in the stream and in lakes connected with it.

Mr. Westernman states that some time ago the department discussed the matter with Walter Burns, mayor of Manistique and Stanley Shurt, supervisor of the Regional Fisheries at Thompson and it was understood then that some trap nets would be set in the river below the dam to secure necessary data.

NOVEL PROGRAM
AT CLUB MEETThirteen Rotarians Tell
Few Interesting
Facts Of Lives

A program that brought out a number of interesting facts about the lives of some members of the Gladstone Rotary club marked the weekly luncheon meeting at the Fisher Hotel yesterday.

Names of members were placed in a hat and a portion of them drawn. Members whose names were on the slips drawn were required to give their birth date, and place, how they earned their first dollar and how it was spent and also some interesting or humorous experience in their life.

From the wealth of facts related it was gleaned that one member was born on a ferry boat plying between the United States and Canada.

Participating in the program were S. R. Venne, Roland Hale, A. T. Sohler, A. D. Harris, H. J. Bray, Wallace Cameron, Andrew Canuelle, Gordon Kelley, G. E. Dehlin, A. C. Peterson, C. E. Hawkins, Dr. A. H. Miller and Tom Bolger.

Just over a steep ridge north of the first Motoyama airstrip, Reuter and a comrade were pinned down by intense mortar and artillery fire. Asked by his command post what the situation was "up there," the Texan answered over the field telephone.

Passing Anywhere Behind Line Permitted In New Collegiate Rules

ELBOW BLOCK MADE ILLEGAL

Gridiron Group Has First Meeting Since Shortly After Pearl Harbor

New York, Apr. 2 (AP)—Forward passing will be permitted anywhere behind the line of scrimmage and a second successive out-of-bounds kickoff will be put in play by the receiving team on the kicking eleven's 40 yard line, the National Collegiate Football Rules Committee decided today.

In addition, the college gridiron rule makers decided that in future a substitute may report to any official on the field; made the elbow-block definitely illegal and revised the center's stance so that none of his body extends beyond the forward point of the ball.

It was the first meeting of the group since shortly after Pearl Harbor and the first under the chairmanship of Col. William Birmingham, Harvard athletic director on military leave.

All members of the rule-making group except A. A. Stagg, who could not get a reservation from his Stockton, Calif., home, and H. O. (Fritz) Crisler of Michigan, now on an army special service tour, attended.

To insure proper control of the kickoff, the new rules permit the ball to be elevated an inch from the ground but does not specify the construction, size or composition of the tee.

In adopting the unrestricted forward pass, the collegians will follow the style of the pros. Until now, a college passer had to be five yards behind the line of scrimmage.

The revamped substitution rule costs the field captain his right to reject the substitute. The coach assumes all responsibility for the legality of the change.

The elbow-block, which came into prominence with the T-formation, was eliminated by changing the rule so that a player must have his hands and arms pressed against his own body when blocking.

JOE LOUIS TRANSFERRED
New York, April 2 (AP)—Staff Sgt. Joe Louis, heavyweight boxing champion, has been temporarily transferred from Camp Shanks, N. Y., to the Fox Hills Terminal, Stapleton, Staten Island, to assist in the building up of an athletic program, it was announced today.

The Fox Hills Terminal trains Negro soldiers as port companies to do stovedoring and related duties.

Crowd Lure Pulls Babe Back To Sports Stage As Wrestling Referee

BY BILL KING

Boston, April 2 (AP)—It's the lure of the crowds and not—positively not—financial worries that is bringing back Babe Ruth to the sports stage as a wrestling referee. "Babe" the 51-year-old baseball immortal retorted when asked to give his reasons for his wrestling career here today. "I should say not. And I never will be as long as trust funds pay off and my other investments continue on a dividend-paying basis."

"No, it's not finances that prompted me to accept offers to referee in Portland and Boston," he continued. "I've been out of baseball for 11 years now and, since my old game does not appear to want me anywhere, I haven't had much chance to keep in touch with the crowds."

"I like being with people and enjoying them and I'll have an opportunity to see them as a wrestling referee. You know I'm no rookie in that league. I must have refereed at least 10 wrestling shows while I was in baseball."

"I'm 51 now, weigh about 240 and feel fine," he said. "But I had some throat trouble recently and my physician advised me to cut down on smoking and slow down my visiting to army and navy hospitals. I've visited at least 750 of them since the war began, averaging about four a week. Now I go to one a week."

Hunting And Fishing

By Sid Gordon

TROUT FISHING INSURANCE
It is tough to see a new rod or the old trawl beaten hard to your few choice fishing spots. You know, soon, your favorite spots will be a mess of tin cans, bread wrappers and dozens of different size shoe prints. The secret spot will be just a public camping ground. Every trout fisherman should take out insurance against such happenings but few of us do. Too late, we run around the brush the next season in a fury and a frenzy, hoping to discover waters new to us which will give us the pleasure of the old waters.

The time to prevent such things comes right after the trout season closes. The weather is right, the woods are beautiful and the old system has been tuned through the summer to stand some good hikes.

A skillet, a stewpan, some groceries and the car are the things you'll need, along with a map and a compass. Buy the best map you can secure, a county map from an aerial survey is the ideal map.

Go alone if you can, rather than take someone with you who will keep crabbing about the long hikes, the chuck and the discomfort of the trip. Throw a few blankets in the car and a filled water jug.

I like to make a good beef stew at home or in the woods. Cut the beef in small chunks. Brown those pieces in a little bacon drippings, in the skillet. Then put them in the stew pan with a little water and simmer the beef until it is tender. Cut up some onions, carrots and potatoes.

After you think the beef is tender enough, then put the vegetables in with the meat, add enough hot water to cover, season to your taste with salt and pepper. When that has cooked enough half hour, you have chuck enough to last you two full days by warming it up over the campfire.

As you drive on the road along the river, look for old roads, log roads or skid roads, which are blocked with timber, windfalls or second growth. Park your car right there, off the road, and hike to the river.

If the map shows the river to lie due west, travel west by compass until you hit the river. Then spend some time there looking for human footprints and beaten trails. If there are none, study the river and decide whether it looks good to you upstream and down.

Two days of easy scouting such as this, sleeping right there in the car will do you good and probably open your eyes to "secret" fishing spots. Fishermen today do not travel far, upstream or downstream, from a good road or a landing.

In your scouting trips, you'll often be surprised at the good spots you will locate which have not been fished two miles above or below a bridge or landing. Learn a short cut by compass to the river, leave no beaten trail when you go there to fish. It will be a little longer hike from the car but will be well worth it.

New York, April 2 (AP)—William (Doc) Morris, 59, veteran sports writer for the New York Daily Mirror, died today following a short illness.

OVERMIRE ARM GETTING BETTER

Stubby Tiger Southpaw Isn't Expecting Trouble

BY FRANK KENESSON

Evansville, Ind., April 2 (AP)—Frank (Stubby) Overmire, Detroit Tiger lefthander whose claim to distinction as the American League's shortest pitcher is disputed this season by Washington's Italian-born Marino Pieretti, isn't expecting trouble this season from the sore arm that had him on the shelf for the last two weeks of the 1944 campaign.

"It's coming along fair," Overmire reported after nearly three weeks of spring training. "But I don't want to say my arm's okay. As sure as I talk about it I'll come up sore again. I'll be able to let better when I start bearing down."

The chunky little 5-foot 7-inch southpaw from Grand Rapids, Mich., had a barrel of trouble with his flipper late in 1944, missing his regular turn on two occasions during the last week of the season when the Tigers were fighting their terrific flag duel with the St. Louis Browns.

"I was willing to pitch, but it hurt me bad," the former Western Michigan college twirler said, "and I knew I wouldn't be at my best."

"When the season ended I couldn't raise my left arm above the height of my shoulder without getting terrific pains. But I gave it a good rest during the fall and winter and didn't use it much until after the first of the year. Now it feels pretty strong and I don't notice any more soreness than I did last spring."

Overmire, who worked for a Grand Rapids varnish firm during the winter, played handball a few weeks before the opening of spring camp to ease his arm into shape. By that time the soreness was almost entirely gone. But he didn't throw any until his arrival here March 15.

Nine days after he started training Overmire pitched the first three innings of an intra-squad game against the Tiger "regulars." He fanned the first man to face him, walked another and permitted just one hit in facing 12 batters. His control was exceptional.

In his second intersquad appearance—his six-inning stint last Saturday—Stubby fell victim of a series of fluky bounces that enabled the regulars to record nine straight hits and seven runs in a single frame. Two of the blows were fly balls his outfielders lost in the sun.

Overmire laughed off his misfortune with a sly grin. "Tell me it's my batting that worries me this year, not my pitching."

In the 1944 season Overmire hit .175, almost exactly his weight. The entire year he was credited with just 11 hits.

"News About Life"

"Why isn't the greatest war in history resulting in at least a few of the great novels of literature?" This question, in various forms has been put to me so often during the past two or three years that it may almost be said to have become a stereotype in the field of criticism. The theory seems to be that a global upheaval must inevitably find an interpretation in supremely great works of art. The world is experiencing the greatest subject for fiction since life began on this planet, yet the novels and plays that have come out of it are almost uniformly feeble.

As a single illustration, we are now far enough away from such a war novel as John Steinbeck's "The Moon Is Down" to see that compared with the great fiction coming out of other wars, it is too feeble for even casual mention. Compare it with "War and Peace" and what is left of it? Or even with "The Red Badge of Courage"—the mere comparison tells its own story. It was hailed a year or two ago as a great novel because it dealt with a great subject matter. But even when it is set against the background of John Steinbeck's other best work, its essential feebleness becomes clear.

The same thing can be said about most of the works of fiction that have come out of this war. We are getting incomparably well written reports about the war's surfaces; never before in history have foreign correspondents written such able books reflecting first-hand contact with the war. But even at best they are pictures of surfaces only; it is the novelist's business to dig down beneath the surface and to report what he finds there. The foreign correspondent gives us news about events; the novelist must give us news about life. So far in this war he has failed to do this. Why?

One answer is that the only ones who can give us authentic news about this life are too much occupied at the moment with the business of experiencing life to write about it. It may be taken as almost inevitable that the great novels about our global war will be written by men and women who are now fighting it. The

BASEBALL

BY FRANK KENESSON

Evansville, April 2 (AP)—Ralph Ruthstrom, 28-year-old right hand pitcher, and Ed Mierkiewicz, 20-year-old center fielder, left the Detroit Tigers training camp today for Buffalo on option as General Manager Jack Zeller shaved the Detroit squad to 25 men, with two others expected to arrive momentarily.

Pitcher Bob Gillespie, who won eight games and lost nine for Buffalo last season, has been advised to report directly to the Bisons' camp at Hershey, Pa. Gillespie was to have opened training with the Tigers nearly three weeks ago. Two other pitchers, Ruff Gentry and Forrest Orrell, were expected to come into the Tiger fold this week, Zeller said. Orrell, who has passed his pre-induction physical but does not know when he will be called, reported that he was leaving his Clearfield, Utah, home nearly a week ago. Gentry is a holdout.

The Tigers worked out today without Manager Steve O'Neill, who remained at his hotel because of an attack of arthritis in his left hand.

The first of Detroit's five exhibition games with the Chicago White Sox will be played Wednesday at George Field, Ill. The Tigers break camp here Friday and move to Terre Haute, where they will meet the Sox in four more games starting Saturday.

Atlantic City, N. J., Apr. 2 (AP)—Don Savage helped the New York Yankees even their spring exhibition series with the New York Giants today by belting a three-run homer in the eighth inning and driving in four of the American league's runs in their 5-2 victory.

Walt Dubell held Mel Ott's men scoreless in a six-inning stretch but Rookie Bill Dekoning's triple and Buddy Kerr's single off Bill Zuber in the ninth broke the shut-out.

George Tiernweiss stole his first base of the training season in the first and scored on Johnny Lindell's single off Van Mungo. Ray Harrell yielded the second Yankee tally in the sixth.

Capt. Jack Chevigny, who was killed in action at Iwo Jima, was the principal speaker at the first fan-athlete banquet held in Escanaba as a substitute for the high school football banquet that had been held in previous years at the Escanaba high school.

Chevigny, who was a backfield coach at Notre Dame at the time, spoke at the Ludington hotel March 28, 1932. He was a great speaker who spoke with deep sincerity on the subject of athletics. St. Louis, April 2 (AP)—Shortstop Marty Marion joined the St. Louis Cardinals today for his first workout this season after signing his 1945 contract during the morning. Marion said he weighs 169 pounds, 15 more than at the close of last fall's world series.

Cape Girardeau, Mo., April 2 (AP)—The St. Louis Browns went through another indoor batting practice today, Manager Luke Sewell using Pitchers Al LaMacchia, Sam Zoldak and John Miller.

Lakewood, N. J., April 2 (AP)—Catcher Ray Berres reported to the New York Giants today, boosting the total of regular receivers to two. Ernie Lombardi had been doing all the heavy work in early games with relief from rookies.

NO PLANS, SAYS JIMMY BYRNES

Sports Folks Like Idea Of War Mobilizer For Baseball Boss

BY BUS HAM

Washington, April 2 (AP)—Sports people dalled with the idea that maybe Jimmy Byrnes might become baseball's new high commissioner, but Jimmy nixed it.

Nearly everybody said he had the qualifications for the job, but Byrnes, who resigned today as war mobilizer, made it plain that he was not interested.

An aide said Byrnes "had not been offered the post, and even if it was offered, he would not accept it under any conditions."

Meanwhile Byrnes, according to his aide, had "absolutely no plans" after taking a rest at his home at Spartanburg, S. C.

Baseball's four-man committee recently announced that it is ready to make a recommendation on a new boss to succeed the late Kenesaw Mountain Landis.

Byrnes, despite his one-two punches, has won the admiration of persons in athletics, including Ford Frick, National League president, who has been prominently mentioned for the commissionership.

After Frick and Will Harridge, American League president, had conferred with Byrnes recently on baseball's manpower problems, Frick told reporters that he was tremendously impressed by Byrnes as a great little guy.

Chicago Boy Steals AAU Show In Boston

Boston, April 2 (AP)—Stanley Shealey, Chicago middleweight, stole the A. A. U.'s national amateur boxing championship show tonight by blasting out the highly regarded Zep Davis, New England titlist from the Quonset, R. I., Naval Air Station, with one punch to gain the semi-final round at the Boston Garden.

Davis had captured the crowd's approval several hours earlier by knocking out Coast Guardsman Dallas Waddell of Groton, Conn., in their third and final round.

The tourney's outstanding heavyweight, Eddie Wagner, six-foot-seven Chicago negro from nearby Fort Devens, was withdrawn from the two-day competition when his home district association reported he had fought twice as a professional in 1940.

Thornton, who established citizenship with the family Bible, wanted a war job and didn't have a birth certificate.

DEMAND LOW; TREND UPWARD

New York, April 2 (AP)—Financial markets today but, in the case of stocks, slackness of demand tended to cloud the bullish picture to a considerable extent.

U. P. Briefs

OLD THEATER BURNED
Menominee — Dreamland, the only movie house Menominee ever had outside its downtown business district, was a smoking ruin today and a veteran member of the Menominee fire department, Captain Dave Paris, suffered a laceration that may require amputation of a finger. A blaze destroyed the old Broadway building last night about 10 o'clock.
Dreamland, owned by John (Pat) Zimmer, former Sixth ward alderman, had not been used as a movie house for more than 20 years. It flourished as a neighborhood theater in the days of the silent films and its first manager was Edward Kartheiser, son of the late Frank Kartheiser, former Menominee mayor. Later it was used as a rifle range and in recent years it had been used by Zimmer for storage purposes. Last night's fire loss was not covered by insurance, but Zimmer said today he hoped to salvage about $300.

Press Q&A Service

What do you want to know? We will answer questions on any subject not involving extended research. Legal or medical advice cannot be given. Write your question clearly, (IMPORTANT) Mail this coupon and a 3-cent stamped self-addressed envelope to Service Bureau, 1217 Thirteenth St. Washington 5, D. C., for a personal reply. Don't telephone; write as directed.

Q. My son was killed in action and I receive his insurance payments each month. I am 69 years of age and in poor health. My husband is four years younger, but may not be able to work much longer. If anything happened to me, could the insurance be paid to him?

A. If the soldier did not leave a widow or child, the insurance payments would be made to your husband in the event of your death. Or, if the soldier designated your husband as contingent beneficiary, payment would be made to him even though there was a widow or child.

Q. I have only one son in the service. I receive $37 Family Allowance and he sends me $20 more out of his pay. This is not enough for all my expenses as I have a girl 13 years of age to support. Should not I receive an amount for her?

A. The amount of Family Allowance you receive is based on the fact that the evidence of dependency you submitted showed you were dependent upon the serviceman for substantial support only. The amount payable is $37 regardless of the number of dependents in that classification. You should request review of your application to determine whether you are entitled to chief support. If chief support was approved you would receive $50 a month, or $68 for yourself and child if application is filed for her.

General Column

Q. How is sugar used in the manufacture of gunpowder?

A. Caned sugar, from which refined sugar is made, is one of the best sources of first-class ethyl alcohol. Smokeless powder is made from ethyl alcohol. Nine-tenths of a pound of sugar provides enough sugar alcohol (combined with nitric acid and gun cotton) to make a pound of smokeless gun powder.

Q. Why are diamonds important in war and defense industries?

A. Some of the metal alloys now in use are many times harder than metals formerly used, and nothing but a diamond-pointed tool will cut them satisfactorily. Also, only the diamond can stand the severe pressure necessary in modern industrial production.

Women's Page

Q. When pairs of legs do house centipedes have?

A. Fifteen.

Q. Should hot milk be fed to dogs and cats?

A. It is good practice to warm the milk, but very hot milk may have a tendency to burn the animals, and cause some internal injury. A 32-page booklet, "DOG AND CAT BOOK" about breeds, characteristics, care, treatment of diseases and training of dogs and cats, may be obtained from our Washington Service Bureau, 1217 Thirteenth St., Washington 5, D. C., for ten cents in stamps or coin.
